It was a level spot just the spot where camp would be pitched at the highest timber & close to water ^{to} which must have been the camp of ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~party~~ ^{party} had been there before. ^{It is} ~~which~~ added to our perplexity as this the second peak was to prove to be within easy reach it was a very bad start for what we ^{then} thought was Mt. Jonia. After we got bad to Christ Church ^{a refutation} ~~of~~ ^{of} ~~my~~ ^{my} ~~idea~~ ^{idea} and was going west through I am certain I told him that Mt. Jonia had been climbed An article appeared "First ascent of Mt. Jonia" which promptly brought a letter to say that Mt. Jonia had been climbed by Gerhard Müller Survey party in 1884.
The ~~then~~ ^{then} got hold of ^{the} map issued by the Westland Survey & Miss Scott who lives in D. Canada spent some time in searching through old files in the Survey Office & found Müller report to the Government ^{in 1884} ~~of~~ ^{of} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~map~~ ^{map} which is the basis of the map with this article. Both in this & in the Westland map a name for Jonia was shown as rising ~~on~~ ^{from} crest of north wall of the upper Aranda - we had been wondering why a surveyor, wanting to locate his trig. points on south side of the Aranda, had ~~not~~ chosen a peak which was marked on this second peak. & believed it exactly in the position of the peak we climbed appeared ^{had} ~~name~~ ^{name} Mt. Cross ⁷⁴⁵¹ * which I walk & head was quite a good name for a curious square block of steep rock
