

I then had been a big flood in Feb. & the water & rain falling in the day & in several places the surface was very bad.

(1) BULLER
* The first page of the BRUNNER. At one little time I was having tea & when I was going in the kitchen I was still paying much attention when I suddenly realized "in" "out". I then what that was & went to hear the result. Only an old Cambridge man I got the bookman says that Cambridge was of full length.

(2) * Stopping at a little inn where the hot-bath was a natural spring with the bank about 50 yards from the inn. There was no ^{down} hot-bath to the bath, one left word at bar & hoped for the best. * I then the laundry between the waits. After being cramped in the plane, I had the goods it took me half an hour to get the 150g and from the laundry found 6 to total. but a hot-bath & air was great relief.

My leg was obviously & right troublesome so I decided to leave the waits & get some salmon fishing on the other side. I packed my things & I packed my things into the car & drove back over the river to Christchurch & went with a friend to the mouth of the Rakaia for three days. There were very few fish running but I was lucky enough to catch a few. I then drove back to the coast & after a short stay, drove up where I got the ferry to Wellington in the north of Island & then drove up the river of the sea & about at the Port of the when I stopped at COCKRAN'S Camp & got some good trout fishing from the Auckland when I sold the car & came of the S.S. Niagara which was out in the water via Honolulu & Fiji to Vancouver. I had my journey then in Rockies to get off at Kamloops & get some of the very good fishing at Paul Lake getting the first catch day. A big W. to see Lake House & the terrible hotel, Jim says in Banff where it was too early to do any climbing meeting the weather
