The benefits to be derived by the public from insurance against loss by Fire are so great and numerous, when compared with the trifling cost, as to render it an imperative duty for all to avail themselves of the protection afforded by this Institution against the destructive ravages of Fire, which in a few minutes may lay waste the fruits of a whole life of industry.

The Norwich Union Fire Office, after more than a century's existence, is able to offer the insuring public the utmost advantage which the system is capable of supplying. By carefully selecting their business, by tabulating their experience in all its branches, and by strict economy in management, the Directors are able to insure property at the LOWEST RATES compatible with the security of the assured and the stability of the Office.

THE CHRISTCHURCH PRESS COMPANY'S NEWSPAPERS.

"The Press," (price 1d.), is the oldest established daily morning paper in Canterbury, and has the largest circulation. Eight pages four times a week, and twelve pages on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It is widely circulated amongst the industrial, commercial, and financial classes. Annual subscription—26s. per annum prepaid; postage extra.

"Truth" is published every afternoon, first edition (to catch country trains) at 3 p.m., second edition at 4 p.m., and special editions as required. It is a very "live" evening paper, giving all the very latest news of the day from various parts of the colony, by Press Association and "special" wires, and it is always brimful of crisp comment on the topics of the day. It is published at one penny.

"The Weekly Press" is the acknowledged representative weekly paper of the Colony, throughout which—from Stewart's Island in the South to the Bay of Islands in the North—it circulates. The popular weekly with the green cover is to be seen everywhere in town and country. It was the first paper to illustrate. 12 and 16 pages (and more as occasion demands) of its high class half-tone illustrations give the news and beauty spots of the Colony. "The Weekly Press" devotes many pages to the "Ladies' Magazine," Agriculture, Commercial, Volunteering, and general news, and as a representative paper is extensively forwarded abroad by all mails. Incorporated in "The Weekly Press" is the "New Zealand Referee," the Official Calendar (appointed by the authorities) for all Racing and Trotting Clubs in New Zealand, the New Zealand Gun Club Association, New Zealand Polo Association, New Zealand Kennel Club, and other organisations. The price of "The Weekly Press" (which is never less than 72 pages) is sixpence per copy, and the annual subscription 2s. prepaid; postage outside of New Zealand extra.

"Illustrated New Zealand" is the Christmas Number of "The Weekly Press," and nothing to compare with it is published in Australasia. Printed on art paper, it consists of 62 pages of half-tone illustrations, with special art pages and chromo-litho supplements in many colours. Price one shilling.

THE PROVINCE OF CANTERBURY.

INTRODUCTION.

THE PROVINCIAL DISTRICT OF CANTERBURY, speaking accurately, is bounded on the North by the Hurunui River; on the East by the Ocean; on the South by the Waitaki River; and on the West by the Snow-clad Range which forms the backbone of the Southern Alps. So much for the geographical boundaries which will not interest us much further, as many of the places of interest herein mentioned, lie outside them, and the main objects of this little book are to describe what is to be seen, taking Christchurch as a focus, and to so lay all available information before the tourist, that he will be able, in the calm seclusion of the smoking or reading room to decide upon the trip which best suits his tastes. It may not, however, be out of place to remark here that although the official settlement of Canterbury did not take place until December, 1850, a fair sprinkling of hardy colonists had made their homes here long before that time, and had grown sufficient stock to keep the new settlers going with meat, &c. To give an idea of the growth of the population during the past fifty-one years, it may be mentioned that in 1851 the total white population of Canterbury, exclusive of Maoris, was 3,273, while in 1900 it had risen to 148,941; and the number of sheep had, during the same period, increased from 28,416 to 3,951,008. The present population of Christchurch with suburbs is 87,041, but as most of the City people live out of town, the suburbs account for 39,503 of the above total.

DUNSTABLE HOUSE, CHRISTCHURCH.
Though Canterbury cannot boast of the Hot Lakes and Geysers of the North Island, nor of the fathomless and extensive cold-water Lakes of Southland, it possesses many points of high interest to the tourist, and the change from the Hammer Plains in the North, to the everlasting Snow and Glaciers of Mount Cook, in the South; the contrast between the gentle sloping, though apparently level country between the Western Ranges and the sea, and the magnificent mountain scenery, rivers and gorges for which the West Coast Road is famed, and of which descriptions will be found in other parts of this issue, must be seen to be duly appreciated.

Dunedin is the acclimatised home of the Scotchman, and in a lesser degree of the Chinaman. Wellington embraces most nationalities. Auckland is conceded to resemble an American city on a small scale, but despite the admixture of races and creeds Canterbury has remained distinctively English. It is the acknowledged home of sport in all its branches. Here racing, in some shape or form, goes on all the year round; the rivers team with trout, the size and number of which are the envy of the British fisherman; hunting, boating, football, cricket, polo and other sports have their full number of votaries, while those who have leisure and pluck to go into the back country can still engage in the exciting though arduous sport of stalking the red deer, of shooting wild cattle, or of spearing the wild boar. In winter time, hunting and football are the favourite sports, and the latter is now the national game of New Zealand, the youngster who gets into a representative first fifteen being of far greater passing importance socially and otherwise than he who by years of sedulous labour has earned the right to add the mystic letters M.A. to his name.

Distant by rail some six miles from the port of Lyttelton, Christchurch is a most convenient centre for the tourist to start his various trips from, and the best accommodation, and the fullest information is always to be had at Warner's Hotel. The various objects of interest in the city itself, and a series of drives round the neighbourhood will be found in another part of this volume. Suffice it for the present to say that the tourist who has the time to spare can spend a very pleasurable fortnight in Christchurch, and will, if he attend to the directions elsewhere given, rarely have occasion to use the same road twice.
THE HANMER SPRINGS.

Probably the cheapest excursion in New Zealand, and the one which affords the greatest possible change in one day's travel, is the trip from Christchurch to the Hanmer Plains. The total distance is ninety-five miles, sixty-nine miles of which is spanned by the Christchurch-Culverden Railway, the remaining twenty-six miles being covered by Derrett's coach. The return ticket by coach and train, which is available for one month from time of issue, and which can be further extended on application to the railway authorities, costs only 30s., and the expenses by the road consist only of a dinner each way, at Culverden, where one gets a first-class family lunch at the very reasonable tariff of 2s. The first object of interest on the train journey is the crossing of the main branch of the Waimakariri, known as Stewart's Gully, and which is approached through thick plantations of imported trees—pines, oaks, &c.—which border the line closely. The Waimakariri is a typical New Zealand river, and though there will be no time to make detailed observations, the traveller will be able by a hurried glance or two to form some idea of the river for himself. A brief halt at the little township of Kaiapoi, of which, however, little can be seen, and the next stopping of importance is at Rangiora, where tea, buns, &c., can be obtained. Thence through pleasantly settled farm country to Amberley, after which the gradients become steeper, and by the time the Weka Pass, with its picturesque formations in limestone, is reached it takes the engine all its time to keep going up the stiff incline. The summit once reached, steam is shut off, and the train, mainly controlled by the brakes, rattles down merrily into the little hamlet of Waikari, where the thirsty have time to assuage their drought, if they are not hampered by crutches or any physical trouble. From Waikari the train runs on to Culverden on a slightly rising but practically level grade. Good land is run through until the Hurunui River is crossed, but from thence to the Pahau one passes through a dreary waste of gravelly soil, thickly clothed with manuka scrub. Then the land grows good again, and Culverden, the railway terminus and distributing centre of that portion of

CORNER CHANCERY LANE & GLOUCESTER ST., CHRISTCHURCH.
North Canterbury, is reached. After a good lunch we enter the coach and make a start. The road is a good one, and for many miles the scenery is not impressive, though the mountains, with their ever-varying tones of light and shade, and the wild-looking bed of the Waiau river, are in themselves interesting to those who have not seen similar scenery before. But as the road winds along the river there are some pretty peeps of scenery, especially in certain little wooded ravines which the coach road crosses on wooden bridges. Some nineteen miles out from Culverden the Ferry Accommodation House is reached, and here tea and cake, in addition to sterner liquors, are dispensed. It is worth while when here to stroll out in front of the quaint and comfortable little house, and have a good look at the precipitous banks of the Waiau river, at the swirling stream itself, and at the exquisitely proportioned bridge over which the coach will soon pass, and which, springing from rock foundations on either side, girdles the Waiau in one span at a height of about 150 feet above the ordinary water level. But all good things must have an end, and as the driver is taking his seat we must start again. Up a steep hill, over the bridge, one more stiffish climb and we rattle down hill on to the natural amphitheatre known as the Hanmer Plains, and evidently in some remote age an inland lake of no inconsiderable depth and expanse. Even the most amateur of geologists, glancing along the hills cannot fail to perceive the various level benches which still mark the ever-shifting levels of the lake that was. Continuing along a first-class road, with an ever-rising grade, the coach fords the Hanmer, the Percival, and the Rogerson rivers. For the greater part of the year these are only brooklets, through which the pedestrian can walk without becoming seriously wet, but when the heavy rains come on they are swollen torrents, incapable of being crossed save by the venturesome horseman who doesn't object to a swim with the turbulent water running waist high as he sits on his well-trained horse. The first glimpse one gets of the Baths themselves is when the coach swings in at the white gate leading to the Government Sanatorium, and hey, presto! we are in the midst of trim lawns, well-grown trees, and with every evidence of the highest civilisation surrounding us. The accommodation is as varied as the many wants of the passengers, and that is saying a good deal. The ordinary tourist can stay in the first-class portion of the Government Sanatorium, where he will find every comfort at £2 2s. per week, or he will take up his abode at Jollié's Pass Hotel, some two-and-a-half miles further on, from whence he is driven to and from the Baths twice a day free of extra charge. Should neither of these places suit him, there is "The Lodge," a temperance boarding-house, well furnished, and with most commodious rooms, within four minutes' walk; while just across the road are the boarding-houses kept by Mrs. Lahmert, Ashton, and others, at which lodging may be obtained at the most reasonable prices. But for those who are really hard up, and who go to the Plains with the least possible amount of money to expend, let me recommend the second-class portion of the Government Sanatorium at £1 per week, and the use of the swimming-pool free. It is only fair to say that, both for those who may be out of health, and for those who simply seek relaxation from work, worry, or travel, at a moderate expense, the Hanzer Plains are hard to beat. It is, of course, an absurdity to suppose that the waters are a panacea for everything, though they relieve rheumatism and various kinds of congestion in a marvellous manner. But in all this, the invigorating mountain air must not be forgotten. The latitude is 42deg. 30min. south, but the nights are always cool, even in midsummer, and there is no oppressive heat. As a matter of fact the Springs themselves are 1,220 feet above the sea level; it does not take a long walk or ride to get up another 1,500 feet, and the air at this altitude is so rarified that the exertion of climbing takes very little out of one.

The Baths and Grounds.

The grounds in which the baths are enclosed have an area of some thirteen acres, and are planted and laid out in the most exquisite taste. Tennis, bowls, and croquet are always going in the season, and for those who require more violent exercise there is a good asphalt tennis court. A skilled masseuse, Miss Edith Cook, is always on hand to attend to the wants of invalids, and the services of Dr. Little, of Culverden, who always visits the Springs once a week, may be obtained at any time, as there is telephonic communication between the Baths and Culverden. The north-west corner of the grounds is fitted with a pump, and visitors adjourn to this place to drink the waters, which have a reputation for easing stomach, liver, and kidney troubles. The water, however, is not the pleasantest drink for all tastes, as, in addition to its alkaline and saline properties, it is strongly charged with sulphur-etched hydrogen, the latter being as near an approach to the savour of a well-kept egg as can well be conceived. The springs formerly known as Nos. 1 and 8 have now been incorporated for some time, but their respective analyses are as follow:

The total amounts of fixed salts in the two analyses correspond very closely. The sulphates and carbonates in either case are so small that the fact of their varying in the two analyses is a matter of no importance. The fact of the discovery of traces of iodine and lithium in the recent analysis is interesting.

Such then is the composition of the water, the temperature of which ranges from 86deg. to 114deg. Fahrenheit. At the former station the average temperature of the swimming pools, which are supplied with an admixture of cold water. These pools—one for men, and one for ladies—are strongly encased in concrete, and the temperature of the water is so pleasant that the most hardened non-swimmer often learns the useful art without inconvenience. The smaller baths resemble those in use at any first-class hotel or bath-house. They are fitted with ordinary taps, by which the supply of hot and cold mineral water is regulated, and each bath-room has a cold shower, and is supplied with a thermometer. Except in cases of serious debility or heart weakness, the ordinary tourist can safely take the baths without any special instructions; but it is as well to caution the beginner not to go much over 90deg. for a start, until he finds out how the higher temperatures are likely to affect him.

Spare Time.

It may be asked, "How is one going to put in all his spare time up there, for it is clearly impossible for one to be bathing all day long?" Well, there is less in the question than appears at first sight, for the ordinary visitor is not overburdened with energy, and two baths a day, with an occasional game at bowls or what not, fill his time pretty well. But the more active minded can find plenty of excursions, as there is no difficulty in obtaining either vehicles or saddle horses. Excellent trout-fishing may be obtained in the Clarence, Percival, Waian, and most of the tributaries of the latter river, while hares are abundant throughout the district. Those who wish to see hot springs in a state of nature can obtain a guide and go on a camping expedition to Cow Creek some twenty miles away over the range; while those who are fond of mountain climbing will find Mount Captain (6,600 feet) and Mount Percival (5,335 feet) just about as high as they care to go. On these mountains the botanist will discover an endless variety of sub-alpine grasses, herbs, mosses and lichens, and could make a very good collection by putting in two or three days' hard work. The thorough change and rest which is afforded by a trip to the Hanner Plains, the... cheapness of the trip itself, and the interesting fact that the visitor generally continues to improve in health for some weeks after he has left the locality, of themselves ensure that alike to the enterprising and sight-seeing tourist, to the jaded city man, and to the keen sportsman, the Hanmer tour is one which will be remembered with pleasure in after years.

The West Coast Road.

Or all the characteristic scenery which should not be missed by the travelling tourist, the West Coast Road affords the most striking examples. The ordinary coach service runs bi-weekly each way between Springfield and the Otira Gorge, the remaining portion of the journey being covered by train. We take the morning train to Springfield, and proceed along the main south line as far as Holleston, a distance of some fourteen miles from Christchurch. Then walking across the triangular platform we embark on the Springfield train, and the journey is a slow one, as the average rise is somewhere about 35 feet to the mile. After due exercise of patience we find ourselves at the little hamlet of Springfield, which, though only forty-four miles from our starting point, is 1,252 feet above the sea level. The strong and capacious coaches owned by Messrs. Cassidy and Co. are ready waiting, and the luggage and mails are safely stowed away while the passengers are partaking of a brief lunch. Then a start is made, and we proceed at a steady trot on a markedly up-hill grade, through three crossings of the Kowai and one of the Porter River, and we are at the foot of the celebrated Porter's Pass after covering some nine miles. Notwithstanding the drop into the Porter River, we are 750 feet higher than when we left Springfield, and in the next mile and three-quarters we have 1,102 feet to rise, for the top of Porter's Pass is 3,102 feet above the sea level, and is the highest point on the road line. A gentle dip on the other side of the summit brings us to Lake Lyndon, which, when covered with ice in the winter, attracts many visiting skating parties. A few miles further on the change stables, known as "The Springs," are reached. While the teams are being changed the passengers might as well walk on to the Springs themselves, which are only a few yards distant, and which gush out from underneath the road with a profusion of exquisitely pure and ice-cold water, a very few mouthfuls of which will stop the breath of any ordinary man. Thence on to Castle Hill, twenty miles from Springfield, where a brief halt is made for tea, scones, and occasionally other refreshments. The fantastic tracery of the Castle Hill Rocks is well worth notice, and anyone who likes to stay at the comfortable little hotel for a few days can, with a very ordinary amount of exertion, load himself with fossils of all sorts, from sharks' teeth and marine shells downwards, for high as this country is, it was evidently cast up from the deep sea at some remote date. The hotel itself is 2,371 feet above sea level, and is popularly accounted to be nearer heaven than any other hotel in New Zealand. There are any amount of trout in the immediate vicinity, and the Alpine climber can get on peaks a little over 7,000 feet in height with a minimum of risk and effort. The pretty growth of birch trees on the little sheep station on the left-hand side of the road is worth more than a passing notice. Six miles further on and the coach dips down the Craigieburn cutting, with light birch bush on both sides, and quite a respectable patch of native growth at the bottom. Shortly after crossing the Craigieburn River the horses are again changed, and we enjoy a delightful drive for about a mile along the shores of Lake Pearson, 1,990 feet above sea level, whose waters glitter blue in the bright sunlight, or are lashed into an ugly sea-green by driving winds, under the influence of a lowering sky. The traveller will not fail to note the huge mass of shingle, ever shifting towards the lake, over which the coach passes, and from the character of the débris above and below the well-kept track, he can easily judge the amount of trouble both horses and driver are put to when a crossing has to be made immediately after a fresh slip. Another pretty little lake, which is passed within view of the coach a few miles further on, is Grassmere, which looks lovely under a bright sun; and following an undulating road the Cass River is reached, and the blackened ruins of the old Cass Hotel, which, destroyed by fire a few years ago, was once one of the principal stopping places on the road. We are now thirty-five miles from Springfield, and ten from the Bealey township, and, after a stiff climb up Goldney's Saddle, emerge on to the celebrated Waimakariri cutting, one of the most interesting features of the journey. Here the roadway is carved out of the solid rock, and though wide enough for safety, and even to allow another vehicle to pass, the precipices drop from the edge of the road is bound to awaken the interest of the passengers. Leaving the Waimakariri for the time being, we pass through a fertile valley, and a fairly straight and good road, with two or three of the inevitable river crossings, brings us to the Bealey, on the banks of the Waimakariri. This township is one of the highest in New Zealand, being 2,130 feet above sea level. Facing the river, the township is backed up with rugged, bush-clad mountains, which, rising higher and higher as they go back, ultimately mingle with the perpetual snow and ice, which is the glory of the Southern Alps. From the Bealey the head waters of the Waimakariri can be easily reached by riding, and a short walk will take the tourist on to the Bealey Glacier, which is a fair sample of the New Zealand made article. The naturalist, to whom time is no object, provided he is gathering information and specimens, could put in a very profitable week at the Bealey, while the Alpine climber will find in close proximity to the township all the snow, ice, and rock-climbing for which the mountaineer's heart may fairly hunger. Leaving the Bealey township the Waimakariri River has to be forded, and in ordinary weather, though the shingle river-bed is some two miles across, this presents no difficulty, for the track is well kept and only a few shallow streams have to be crossed. But when the river is up the scene changes, the made track cannot be used, and the coach, preceded by a pilot horseman, has to pick its own ford through every stream. But in any case the river is a safe one, as the great width of its bed renders the finding of fords a fairly simple matter. Shortly after crossing the river the traveller becomes aware that he is getting into the true West Coast scenery, and the thick growth of tawhai and other trees, which border the pretty and hilly road which runs along the Bealey River, afford a grateful rest to the eye, and prepare one for what is coming later on. This portion of the road is distinctly pretty, and some eight miles after leaving the Bealey the passengers have a good view of The Devil's Punch Bowl, which is the natural basin of a magnificent cascade which thunders down an almost precipitous drop of 500 feet. From this point the rise to the top of Arthur's Pass (3,038 feet above sea level) is fairly rapid, and on approaching the summit some curious isolated rocks are strongly in evidence. Across the top itself the road is fairly level for about a mile, and runs through the debris of two ancient moraines, which give ample evidence of by-gone glacial action. The ground here, as might be expected, is of a swampy nature, and contains several small tarns in which the handsome Alpine Lily grows in great profusion. The velvety sward of Alpine grasses teams with innumerable varieties of heaths, and the variety of native brooms and veronicae cannot fail to attract the attention of the most amateur botanist. But it is when the sharp, down-hill dip leading to the Otira begins to be negotiated that the passenger recognises he is really on the western side of the range. Down below, in a deep gully on the left, surges the Otira River, now dashing against massive boulders, now taking flying leaps in the air as it forms one miniature cascade after another. Surrounding all is the thick and almost impenetrable bush, while in front and behind are towering precipices, bold, rugged, unattainable, standing as though it was their business to keep watch and ward over the whole district.

Down, and ever down for a distance of three miles, the coach rolls along, and at every turn fresh beauties are disclosed to the view. Cliff and waterfall, cavern and torrent; above all the rugged heights and the blue sky; around all the silence, broken only by the thunder of the waterfall, or the roar of the foaming river below—that silence which can almost be felt, and which is so marked a characteristic of the New Zealand bush. We have thoroughly enjoyed the drive, but after the long and steep descent are glad to miss for once the continuous grinding of the brake as we speed over the level piece of road which lies between the foot of the Pass and the Otira Hotel, which is likely to be the railway terminus on the West Coast side of the range for many a long year to come.

Though the rest of the journey must be completed by rail, it may not be out of place to mention that the Otira is a very convenient centre from which to make spare excursions. First there is the trip to the top of the Pass, where a day may be usefully spent in collecting botanical specimens, or in investigating the many rock mysteries, many of which have been indelibly branded by the hand of Time. The valley of the Rolleston River is also within easy reach; and a drive to Aicken's, celebrated for its fern growths, or even as far as the celebrated Avenue, past Jackson's, is well worth taking, as there is no better place on the whole of the West Coast in which to study the various growths of native trees, the finest specimens of which closely border the road on either side. The West Coast is in itself a land of wonders, so far at least as the ever-varying grandeur of its mountain, river, and bush scenery is concerned. The traveller to whom time is precious will probably journey through Kumara, Greymouth, and Reefton. From the latter place he will take coach through the grand scenery of the Buller Gorge to Westport, and while at the latter place will not fail to visit the Denniston township, the highest in New Zealand (for its altitude is 1,960 feet above sea level), and also the extensive works of the Westport Coal Company, of which the township is itself an outcome. The return route is again up the Buller River, and through the little township of Lyell to Nelson, whence steamer may be taken to Wellington, or the return journey made by coach, via Blenheim and Kaikoura, the new sea road from the latter place to the Wairau township embracing some of the prettiest scenery to be met with in New Zealand. But it is well worth the while of the man of leisure to visit that portion of the West Coast which lies to the south of the once flourishing town of Hokitika, from which place, by the way, such interesting features as Lake Mahinapua, with its wonderful scenery and distant mountain views; the forest-swathed Lake Kanieri, and many other objects of interest may be visited. There is also the southern coach road to Ross, and from thence to Okarito, which place can also be reached by steamer from Hokitika. Further routes by horse or foot-track can be traversed as far as Makarora, which is 148 miles south of Ross; but it is safe to say that the scenery met with between Hokitika and Ross will more than repay time and expenditure to anyone who has the leisure, means, and inclination to make the trip. For grandeur of scene, for high and rugged mountains, for placid lakes, for thick forest, for rushing rivers, and for immense glaciers the West Coast of New Zealand knocks Norway and Switzerland combined into a cocked hat, and no description set out in cold print can adequately convey to the visitor more than the barest outlined idea of what awaits him. To understand the true inwardness of the West Coast scenery everyone must see it for himself. Even then he cannot part with his property to others. His observations are his own individual possession.

MOUNT COOK.
12,349 feet.

"Dost thou not see how high Scenery stands, While with her glittering snow."—Homer.

The Mount Cook trip, though it occupies a considerable amount of time, is worth taking, especially for anyone who wishes to become acquainted with one of the largest glaciers in the known world which is easy of approach, and who delights in the clear, fresh mountain air, and the ever-varying aspects of the towering mountain peaks. The tourist by the express from Christchurch saves one night as against the man who starts from Dunedin, for the Christchurch passenger lands in Timaru at 2.45 p.m. and can take a rest until the train leaves for Fairlie at 4.13 p.m., while the Dunedin man does not arrive in Timaru until 4.59 p.m., and has consequently to wait for the next afternoon before he makes his start.
But if the day be a clear one, and most days are fairly clear in the Timaru district, he can get a distant view of Mount Cook from the breakwater, and a drive round some of the fine farming land which surrounds the southern seaport will amply repay the trifling cost.
The township of Fairlie lies to the north-west of Timaru, from which place it is distant by rail forty-two miles. The coach leaves Fairlie at 7.30 a.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays, returning from the Hermitage on the corresponding days of the next week, the stay for the night being made either way at Lake Pukaki, and this service lasts from Nov. 1 to April 30. During the remainder of the year there is a weekly service between Fairlie and Pukaki, but should the road be clear of snow there is no difficulty about making further arrangements. Beyond the encircling mountains there is little to see until the last township—that of Burke's Pass— is reached some fourteen miles out, and this is our last glimpse of anything approaching congregated settlement. The township itself is prettily situated at the junction of two well defined mountain ranges, and the climb to the top of Burke's Pass (2,500 feet) is not a severe one.
Here we get our first view of the Mackenzie Plains, which, intersected by two large rivers, the Tekapo and Pukaki, and numerous small streams, are hemmed in with a cincture of lofty mountains, and when these are covered with snow the Plains somehow give one the idea of a vast amphitheatre. After a drive of an hour and a quarter from the top of the Pass, we arrive at the summit of the Edwards’ Hill overlooking Lake Tekapo, which is suddenly disclosed to our view, and which, in fine weather, presents an uncommonly pretty sight. This lake is fifteen miles in length by two and a half in breadth, and, like the river of the same name which flows out of it, is thickly stocked with trout. Lake Alexandrina, a smaller but very pretty sheet of water, is within a few miles of the Tekapo Hotel. Some idea of the rise on the twenty-six miles between Fairlie and Tekapo may be gathered from the fact that Fairlie is 996 feet above sea level, while Tekapo is 2,450, and in course of time the latter place will no doubt become a great sanatorium for those suffering from affections of the chest and lungs. Making a fresh start from Tekapo after lunch, we cross the Forks River and the Irishman and Maryburn streams; climb a low saddle known as Simon’s Pass, from the top of which an excellent panoramic view of mountain scenery is obtained, and drop down into the green and cosy-looking little patch which constitutes the homestead of Simon’s Pass sheep station, twenty miles out from Lake Tekapo and forty-six on the through journey. The road continues to wind through billowy accumulations of moraine (which, by the way, simply means a lot of rocks, &c., tumbled about anyhow by glacial action in the remote past), until the top of Dover’s Pass is reached, and Lake Pukaki and the dazzling chain of the Southern Alps come into full sight. Lake Pukaki is some twelve miles in length and three miles and a half in breadth; is about 1,800 feet above sea level, and is distant from Fairlie fifty-seven miles, from Tekapo thirty-one, and from the Hermitage, the end of our journey, forty miles. The view of Mount Cook from Pukaki is one of the finest to be obtained, as from this point “Aorangi,” clad in its perpetual mantle of snow and ice, appears to rise straight up from the head of the lake, while Mounts Sefton, Stokes, and Hardinger attain no unenviable degree of prominence. Starting next morning from Pukaki, the road for some twelve miles runs over the hilly downs which border the lake, and many a pretty peep of scenery is revealed. Some eighteen miles from Pukaki we halt for an al fresco lunch, and, that finished, resume our journey with twenty-two miles yet to be covered. Climbing over low spurs, winding round the heads of the intervening valleys, and crossing numeros small streams, which in flood time are veritable mountain torrents, we enjoy the kaleidoscopic changes of the ever-varying panoramas. Peak after peak, and mountain after mountain successively follow one another, now blotting out for a time, and now bringing into fuller relief fresh beauties. Having noted the sheep-station homesteads at Glentanner and Birch Hill, we round the rocky bluff which goes by the name of Sebastopol, and from which, during and after wet weather the water pours down in numberless cascades. The Hermitage is now in sight at a distance of three miles, and we are not sorry when we reach our destination—forty miles out from Pukaki, and ninety-seven from Fairlie. Early morning—and where is the morning air so fresh and invigorating as in these mountain districts—reminds us that there is much to be seen and done, but an hour may be profitably spent before breakfast in viewing the mountains, watching the avalanches as they reverberate from Mount Sefton, and in getting a general idea of the lie of the country. Of the many sights to be seen, there is the terminal face of the Mueller Glacier within half an hour’s walk, the glacier itself being something over eight miles in length, with an average width of three-quarters of a mile; the great Tasman Glacier, eighteen miles by one and a half; the Hooker Glacier, which is over seven miles in length; and the Murchison, which is ten miles long. One has not to walk far on any of these before he encounters deep crevasses, ice pinnacles, and the omnipresent rock debris, which is the sign manual of glacial action all the world over. The botanist will find any amount of specimens up to a height of about 4,000 feet, and unless he is more adventurous than the ordinary mortal he will be fully satisfied with that degree of elevation. The Alpine climber can, of course, go as high as he likes, or as high as he can get, though the only men who have as yet stood on the top of Mount Cook were Messrs. T. C. Fyfe, the one time local guide, and Zurbriggen, the famous Swiss guide, now dead, who accompanied Mr. Fitzgerald, the English mountain climber. Both of these ascents were made in 1894-5, but a Canterbury amateur party, consisting of Messrs. G. E. Mannering, M. Dixon and others, were successful in getting on to the ridge which lies between the two highest pinnacles, and were only debarred by the approach of night from accomplishing the endeavour on which their hearts were set.

BALLANTYNE'S ATTEND PROMPTLY TO LETTER ORDERS.
Suffice it to say here that the Hermitage Hotel is run by the State, and that every reasonable comfort can be there obtained. There are no end of short excursions which can be made from the Hermitage, and the least enterprising climber can obtain plenty of specimens of edelweiss, Alpine lilies, and other rare growths, with a minimum of toll and trouble. The cost of travelling return tickets is:—From Dunedin to the Hermitage, £5 5s. first class; £4 12s. 6d. second. From Christchurch, £4 15s. first, and £4 7s. 6d. second; the return coach ticket from Fairlie being £2 12s. 6d. The holders of round tickets may return by Pukaki-Kurow route if they so desire.

BEALEY TOWNSHIP.
A short notice of the town of Timaru, which is practically the starting point of the Mount Cook road and the centre of an important grain and wool-growing district, may not be out of place here. The name is, of course, a Maori one, being derived from ti, the Cordyline Australis of the naturalist, or cabbage tree of the settler, and maru, a word which in Maori signifies shelter. For many years the port was merely an open roadstead, and the shipowners who had the temerity to use it met with more than a fair percentage of wrecks. But by the expenditure of some £300,000—and, by the way, harbour works are still being carried on there—Timaru now possesses a very fair little harbour, but has to face the constant work and expense of coping with the ever-accumulating shifting shingle, which, coming from the mouths of the Waitaki and other rivers, pursues its resistless northward journey along the coast. In Caroline Bay, the fine sand sea of which was caused by the obstruction which the breakwater offered to the afore-mentioned travelling shingle, Timaru possesses a safe and convenient bathing place. All the rivers and streams in the neighbourhood teem with trout, and the fisherman will have no difficulty in obtaining reliable information on this subject. There are any amount of drives in the vicinity of Timaru which should interest those who wish to see the conditions under which the growth of grain and stock are carried out in this colony. The principal industries of Timaru are flour-milling, of which the annual output is about 25,000 tons; sheep-freezing to an extent of some 260,000 sheep and lambs per annum; and the manufacture of woollen goods, which accounts for about 1,500 bales of wool per annum. As most of the land in the district is really good, and the climate equable and temperate, one is not surprised to find that the settlers in these parts enjoy more than the usual portion of prosperity.

AKAROA.
Away! I will not be to-day
The only slave of toil and care;
Away from desk and dust! Away!
I’ll be as idle as the air.

For a nice, restful little place, Akaroa is indeed hard to beat. It can be reached by sea from Lyttelton on Tuesdays and Fridays, the distance by this route being fifty miles, and the fare 10s. Or the tourist can go overland via Little River, thirty-six miles distant by train, at a fare of 7s. 6d., and from thence eighteen miles by coach, for which the fare is 10s. But whichever route may suggest itself as being the more suitable, it is worth while to make the return journey via coach to Pigeon Bay, fifteen miles, and thence by launch to Lyttelton about the same distance, as the road is well worth seeing. Anyone who has a day to spare cannot go wrong in riding or driving back to the Hill-top Hotel, about four miles from Little River, and returning to Akaroa via the famous Summit Road, from which excellent views of the many pretty bays which border both sides of the Peninsula may be obtained. By the way, an interesting little piece of history attaches to Akaroa, which, though fairly well known locally, is worth repeating for the benefit of the stranger within our gates. Akaroa was originally colonised by a party of French emigrants, whose reports of their new home were so satisfactory that the French Government decided to take possession of the Middle Island of New Zealand, and sent out a war-ship for that purpose. The ship duly arrived at Auckland, the then seat of Government, and the officers were duly entertained at a ball by the leading residents. During the progress of the dance, one of the French officers unthinkingly divulged to his fair partner the errand on which he was bound, with the result that Captain Stanley, R.N., who commanded the Britomarte, a British frigate then lying in Auckland, lost no time in setting sail, and arriving at Akaroa on August 13, 1840, hoisted the British flag, thus forestalling the French by a few hours. As showing the narrowness of the escape, it may be mentioned that the French frigate L’aube reached Akaroa on August 13, and the sailing ship Comte de Paris, with fifty-seven immigrants, only three days later. grants are still alive, having long passed the ordinary allotted span of human life. From the first they assimilated themselves readily to the colonial style of life, and their descendants, though still cherishing in their hearts a love of their mother country, are as British as the English settlers themselves. Akaroa Harbour is undoubtedly the finest natural seaport south of the line, and in it the whole British navy could ride to its cables in deep water. The town itself has not grown much of late years, but it possesses some very comfortable hotels, and boating and driving excursions can easily be arranged at the shortest notice. Banks' Peninsula, of which Akaroa is the business and commercial centre, is famed for its cheese, its sheep and wool, and for the seed of the cocksfoot grass, which in good years yields a better return per acre than wheat, when the cost of tillage for the latter is taken into consideration. The grass is there already, and all the Peninsula farmer has to do is to keep his stock for the time being off the land which he proposes to reserve for seed. Banks' Peninsula grows everything in profusion with the sole exception of bankrupts, and it does not produce many of these as its conditions of life are too unfavourable for crops of this class. Akaroa is a fine place for a "spell," and an ideal one for a honeymoon. As the climate is somewhat relaxing, people there do not rip and tear at their daily work, but are wont to quietly contemplate a job before tackling it. No tourist will regret having visited Banks' Peninsula, and those who have time to spend a few days in visiting the various bays, &c., will find themselves amply repaid for their exertions.

Tourists or business men who may be staying in Christchurch for a while cannot do much better with their spare time than avail themselves of the various tramway lines which radiate in all directions from the centre of the city, and by so doing they will be able to form a fair impression of the suburbs and favourite sea-side resorts. But as the direction of tram lines is guided rather by business than scenic considerations, the following list of drives, written by the author some twenty years ago, and amended to date, may be found worthy of the visitor's perusal. Any further information concerning them may be readily obtained at Warner's Hotel, the management of which is also ready at any time to make all necessary arrangements. Suffice it to say that the carriages and horses available in Christchurch are second to none in any British colony, and that the neat and stylish “turn-outs” of this city have for years earned the approval and commendations of the cosmopolite.

No. 1.—Sumner.

Return via Heathcote Valley, Opawa, Wilson's Road, and East Belt. Total distance, nineteen miles and a half.

The breeze brings ozone from the ocean,
And the wavelets are sparkling and free;
Far away from the city's commotion,
A day at the seaside—for me.

Leaving Warner's Hotel, we drive via Colombo and High Streets to the Ferry Road, noticing at the East Belt the two oak trees planted by the Duke of Edinburgh in 1869, and the noble Roman Catholic Cathedral now in course of erection a little nearer on the right hand side. Passing through the little hamlet of Woolston, so named on account of the wool-scouring industry carried on along the banks of the Heathcote River, we cross the swing-bridge four miles and a half out, and from thence the road lies along the estuary formed by the rivers Heathcote and Avon. The last mile of the road lies under overhanging precipices of volcanic formation, and the solitary and queerly-shaped pinnacle known as the Shag Rock forms a prominent feature on the left. Arrived at Sumner, the more restful will probably content themselves with sitting on the pier, or on the Cave Rock, and watching the holiday crowd, while those inclined for a two-hours' stroll can either follow the road which leads to the top of the hill overlooking Lyttelton Harbour, or, following a well-defined foot-track which starts from the foot of the hill at the southern end of the beach, stroll as far as the next bay, known as Taylor's Mistake, and have a peer over the precipices which are within a few feet of the track. The Taylor after whom the bay was named only made one serious mistake in his life, and that was when he mistook the bay for Lyttelton Harbour and sailed boldly in. Needless to say, his vessel was lost. The return journey is by the same road until the swing-bridge is reached, but this time we leave the bridge on our right and follow the road along the base of the hills through the quaint and pretty little suburb known as the Heathcote Valley. Here the landward mouth of the Lyttelton tunnel, the reservoir which supplies Lyttelton with fresh water, and the old bridle-track over the hill, which at one time formed the only land communication between Christchurch and the seaport, are to be seen. Leaving the hills some two miles further on, a return is made through the residential suburb of Opawa, which, with its thickly planted trees and green grass, generally attracts favourable notice from the travelled Britisher.

No. 2.—Kaiapoi.

Papanui Road, Papanui, Belfast Freezing Works, Kaiapoi and Clothing Factory, and return. Total distance, twenty-four miles.

"Here's to the born and the hoof,
The firm rich land and the plough.
Of the warp and the woof of the woof
May God send us plenty more."

To those who take any interest in fertile land, in freezing operations, or in colonial manufacturing industry, there is no more pleasing drive than this, though unfortunately there is no complete change of route for the first five miles of the return journey. The geologist will doubtless take notice of the Waimakariri, one of the greatest of our shingle-bed rivers, while the trout fisherman can Leaving Warner's Hotel, we turn to the right, and north, and are soon on the Papanui Road, once an almost impassable swamp, but now remarkable for the solid and tasteful residences of our city merchants, which peep out on either side through masses of greenery. Some three miles out we pass through the little township of Papanui, and cross the Styx stream two miles further on. From here a drive of fifteen minutes brings us to the Belfast Freezing Works, the system and extent of which visitors can see for themselves. Suffice it to say that the works are capable of killing and freezing some 2,000 sheep per diem, and that no one can fail to note the scrupulous care and cleanliness which prevails in every department, or the complete manner in which all the bye-products are turned to useful account. An introduction to the working managers can always be obtained on application to Mr. F. Waymouth, the courteous Managing Director of the company, at the Christchurch head-office, and, armed with this document, the visitors will have the various processes fully explained to them.

We resume the road, cross the Waimakariri River two miles further on, and a pleasant drive of three miles through the fertile land for which Kaiapoi Island is noted lands us at the woolen factory, which is more fully described elsewhere in this issue. This industry practically keeps the little town going, and affords the small farmers an opportunity of disposing of their wool at first hand, thus enabling them to escape the rapacious charges of the middleman. The visitor can form his own opinion of the factory, but whatever he may see there, it is a certainty he will see no shoddy. The goods manufactured by this company have more than held their own all over the world, and it is safe to say that the Kaiapoi travelling rug cannot be beaten anywhere. We have seen what there is to see, and though it is to be regretted that we cannot change our home-ward route for the first five miles, the cool of the evening, and the glowing colours in the west reconcile us for once to a return by the same route.

Lincoln. Return via Tai Tapu, Halswell, and Addington.
Total distance, thirty-one miles.

"Westward roll the stars of heaven,
Eastward tend the thoughts of men;
Let the man to nature given Wander westward now and then."

The School of Agriculture, Lincoln, is the outcome of the idea that a young man will not make any the worse farmer if he possess a fair amount of school knowledge, with the theory of chemistry as applied to soils, a practical knowledge of elementary carpentry and blacksmith’s work, and a fair acquaintance with veterinary science and surveying—that is to say, about enough of the latter for the laying down of levels, and the computation of acreage under crop thrown in. The experimental farm connected with the school consists of some 725 acres of fairly light land, on which experimental in root and grain growing, with various manures and under different conditions of tillage, are made, and the results tabulated for the use of the farming community at large. A rather mixed dairy herd, and some excellent sheep and pigs are kept on the farm, which is supported by a land endowment of some 80,000 acres, and which is but one of the many endowments left to the public by the far-seeing men who fixed up our endowments for us

No. 4.—Governor's Bay.

Sydenham, Governor's Bay, Raupaki, Lyttelton, Sumner, Ferry Road. Total distance, twenty-eight miles.

"Here we have mountain and sea;
And the distant view of the plain
In the sun-lit land of the free,
And the oldest feels youthful again!"

Given a really fine day, there is no more exhilarating drive in New Zealand than this. But as the hills are long, and in places fairly steep, it will be well for once to drop the heavy English-built landau, and to use a light American waggon, or a waggonette with a reliable brake. With a vehicle of this description a pair of horses can take three passengers and a driver with comparative ease, but with a party of from six to eight people a four-in-hand will be necessary, as the hill draught is a very different quantity from that on the level plains. But one reliable horse with a light gig can easily take one passenger with the driver. Leaving Warner's Hotel, we jog leisurely down Colombo Road South, for our horses will want all their wind for the long pull up hill. Passing through the populous suburb of Sydenham, with its 11,000 inhabitants, we find ourselves at the foot of the Port Hills, at two miles and a half from our starting point. After climbing a stiff pinch we halt for a few minutes, and take a look around. Close on our right, with a commanding aspect, stands the Rhodes' Convalescent Home—the free gift of the Rhodes family, who are descended from some of the oldest of the Canterbury pioneers, to the public of Canterbury. It was confidently hoped that a rise of a few hundred feet would afford a complete change of air to those living in the low elevation of Christchurch (only some 7 feet 6 inches above sea level), and the expectations of the founders have in this respect been more than justified. A little further on we pass a group of private houses, whose owners have also decided that life on the hills is preferable to that on the flat. As we steadily continue the ascent, we note from various points of vantage the wide expanse of the Canterbury Plains, enclosed by their mountain barriers, while on a clear day most of the important rivers can be picked up with the aid of a good field-glass. To the northward and eastward the bold curve of the Forty-mile Beach is clearly defined, and about half-way up the hill

we pass Victoria Park, the chosen recreation ground of Sydenham. There is another stiffish grade before the top of the hill is reached, and there we are, 1,200 feet above sea level, looking down upon the blue waters of Lyttelton Harbour and Governor's Bay, with few islands indeed, but with many bays, headlands, and rocky indentations. It is not much more than a mile to the foot of the hill, but the first two grades are distinctly on the steep side, and have to be cautiously negotiated, the remainder of the downhill journey being good travelling. We have now come nine miles, which, owing to the long up-hill, has taken us an hour and a half to accomplish, and lunch, with a spell of another hour and a half, appears nothing but a reasonable suggestion. The road from Governor's Bay to Lyttelton (six miles) is a good one, and, always in the best of order, it crosses the low spurs and runs round the heads of the valleys in a series of delightful curves. About half-way to Lyttelton the Maori kainga of Raupaki is passed, and the healthy appearance of the children and young people speaks volumes for the innate capacity for civilization possessed by the Maori race. Another three miles brings us on to the seaport of Lyttelton, built in the crater of an extinct volcano, with its large graving-dock, of which we get a full view, and its many wharves and other harbour improvements. A five minutes' spell while the horses are getting a drop of water will be all right here, as the road again lies up hill. A short but steep pull lands us on the Summer Road, which has a steady but gradual ascent until the foot of the Zig-zag is reached. On our way we have a capital view of the harbour and the Peninsula mountains, and pass the batteries and barracks of the N.Z. Permanent Artillery. The climb up the Zig-zag is uncommonly steep, though short, the ruling grade being one in six. Here we are once more at the top of the hill. This time, however, only 1,000 feet above sea level, and right above Summer and the Forty-mile Beach. The grade on this side of the hill is a fairly easy one, and we drop down into the hamlet of Summer, of which a description has already been given in Drive No. 1.

No. 5.—Racecourse and Training Stables.

The sporting visitor will hardly feel inclined to leave Christchurch until he has seen the splendid course of the Canterbury Jockey Club, situated some five miles from town, and at least some of the many training stables in the vicinity. The course and grounds are thought to be about the best south of the line, and speak for themselves; but an introduction to the management of the various training stables can always be secured at Warner’s Hotel, and the visitor will have ample opportunities of seeing many of our local cracks, and mentally comparing them with their comp­­­­­­­­­­eers in the Old Country.

Other Trips.

Though the above description does not include all, or nearly all, of the pleasant drives which may be had using Christchurch as a centre, anyone who tries them will doubtless want to see more, and for the benefit of these I will briefly sketch variations from some of those already mentioned, and offer a few suggestions for merely afternoon trips. For instance, if a really long trip is desired, the journey to Governor’s Bay, through Port Lyttelton, and Sumner, home, may be extended from twenty-eight to fifty-one miles by taking the route via Tai Tapu, Gebbie’s Valley, and Port Victoria, thus reaching Governor’s Bay by a round-about road in thirty-one miles instead of in nine. Again, after reaching Kaiapoi on the twenty-four miles trip previously described, a forty-one mile journey may be done by continuing the route to Rangiora via Flaxton, and returning by way of the Maori kaiapa and Woolend. But there are also many pleasurable little drives which will not extend over a couple of hours, such as the trip to New Brighton via Avonside and Mile Road, and return by way of Burwood; to follow the windings of the river Avon as far as Dallington, and return via Richmond; a look at the Christchurch racecourse; the pretty jaunt through the English looking lanes of Merivale, Bryndwr, and Fendalton; and many others which need not be here described, but concerning which a hint to your driver of what you wish to see will be quite sufficient. It is enough to say that but few parts of any British colony are provided with roads as good, or as diversified as those in the immediate vicinity of Christchurch.

Chamber the sessions of the province used to be held, and it is safe to say that at the present day the whole of New Zealand could not show such men as were wont to sit there, or reproduce the polished wit of a FitzGerald or a Crosbie Ward, the bluff thorough earnestness of a Moorhouse, or the men of ability and integrity who so nobly and firmly laid the foundations of the province, who administered its affairs, who conducted its public works and dictated its endowments, and who in so doing set an example in the shape of consideration for others, and of abnegation of self which has unfortunately been lost sight of by most of the would-be leading men of the present day, with whom not to advertise self is to be indeed lost. But though these are gone, much of their work remains, and they may justly be credited with the exquisite taste which characterises the interior of the Chamber. The floor is laid down in tessellated pavement; the roof is supported by a series of flying arches, which combine lightness and strength with grace of design, and the mottoes and subjects chosen for the finely-stained windows are such as would be likely to divert the thoughtless or designing legislator from dreams of evil, would he but read them, and reading understand. The Chamber is well worth a visit, not only as an old relic, but on account of its intrinsic beauty.

The Cathedral Tower.

On a fine day the tourist may spend an hour profitably in walking across the road from Warner's Hotel and climbing up to balconies of the Cathedral Tower, from which many fine views can be obtained. The climb is not a difficult one for any but an invalid, a good pair of field-glasses is an indispensable adjunct, and the pleasure of the visit is considerably heightened if the services of a local man can be impressed for the purpose of pointing out the various landmarks and objects of interest. However, as the Government Tourist Department is now almost next door to Warner's Hotel, there should be no difficulty in this respect. To prevent disappointment it may be as well to point out that little can be seen on a misty day, and that fine clear weather is necessary in order to obtain good views.

The Acclimatisation Gardens.

The Acclimatisation Gardens, in which the Museum is situated, are well worth a visit if only for the purpose of noting how well tree growths from all parts of the world flourish in this climate. They, and Hagley Park which surrounds them, are more relics of the old provincial days, and it is to be regretted that there are no public funds with which to keep them in better order, all the money available for that purpose being derived from the sales of young trout, of which there is a large hatchery in the Gardens, and the money received by the Acclimatisation Society for rod and gun licenses. But be that as it may, a stroll round the Gardens, surrounded in three directions by the pretty Avon, which here looks at its best, is well worth taking. Another good stroll is round the various portions of Hagley Park, the veritable lungs of the city, with its fine plantations of pines, oaks, elms, and ash.

The Public Library.

The Christchurch Public Library, situated at the junction of Hereford Street and Cambridge Terrace, is well worth a visit. Originally started as a humble Mechanics' Institute, it was subsequently lucky enough to fall under the management of Canterbury College, from the fat endowments of which it has derived no meagre sustenance. The building is of brick, the rooms are well lighted and suitably arranged, and the site is as central as could reasonably be desired. The public have free access to the reading-room, in which are filed eighty-two New Zealand, nine Australian, and three American newspapers, in addition to twenty-one English papers and magazines; and to the Reference Library, which contains 13,451 volumes. The subscriptions to the Circulating Library of 20,517 books is at the rate of 2s. 6d. per quarter, and visitors to the city can enjoy the same privileges for the sum of 2s. per month. They have, however, to leave a deposit of 5s. as guarantee for due return of the books, the said deposit being paid back when the last book taken out is handed in. The total number of regular subscribers is 1,929, who provide an income of £964 10s. per annum. The public...

Hill Walks.

There are many fine hill walks in the vicinity of Christchurch, and as long as the visitor chooses a road for his purpose he cannot lose his way. There is the walk from the foot of the Port Hills at the foot of Colombo Street to Governor’s Bay. The two miles and a half are covered by tram, leaving six miles and a half to walk, and the return journey to Lyttelton can be made by coach or launch. Then there is the walk from Heathcote Valley to Lyttelton over the Bridle Track, with a stiff grade on both sides, but not much more than two miles in point of horizontal distance; and the stroll from Lyttelton to Summer of about five miles. There are many exquisite short-cuts over the hills, and the summit walking is everywhere pretty good; yet it is hardly advisable for a stranger to undertake these without the guidance of someone who knows the country, as even with the best written description he might find himself in difficulties.

FROM AN AGRICULTURAL AND PASTORAL POINT OF VIEW.

By M. Murphy, F.L.S.

We may easily imagine the feelings of the enterprising pioneers who, some sixty years ago, after toiling to the top of the Port Hills on what is now known as the Bridle Path, first saw the extensive and evidently fertile plains—at present so thickly populated and well cultivated, but then a wild waste of swamp, river-bed, and waving tussock grass—stretching for forty miles to the foot of the Southern Alps, uninhabited save by native birds, rats, and pigs, which last were descendants of those originally placed there by Captain Cook. Surely some vision of its present appearance arose before them, inspiring them with the tremendous energy which led them to drag their ploughs, and carry their other implements and tools and all their provisions over the steep and rocky hills, and the tireless perseverance with which they gradually overcame all the obstacles which had twice before led to the abandonment of these now smiling plains as unfit for colonisation. The change is indeed marvellous, and fills us with admiration for and pride in those undaunted men and women, many of whom, we are glad to know, have lived to see the happy results of their long and arduous labours. Comfortable homesteads, occupied by a prosperous and happy people, good roads, substantial bridges, and railways now intersect the plains in all directions. The story of the early settlers is full of interest, the struggles and hardships incidental to a new country were many and severe, and have been well described by several who so nobly endured them. It is interesting to note that the first house built in Canterbury was erected by the late Mr. Deans, on what is now known as Riccarton, about the year 1846. The spot is marked by an appropriate memorial stone, which will be regarded with ever increasing interest as time advances. It was on the same property that cultivation was begun by the same gentleman turning the first soil with the first plough. It was found that the soil was admirably adapted for the growth of all cereals as well as for pasture, 60 bushels of wheat, 15 tons of potatoes, and 120 bushels of oats per acre being obtained as a first crop. Subsequent events have shown that there is no part of the British Dominions where agriculture in its most varied forms can be carried on with so much certainty, and with such good results, as in Canterbury. The climate, although somewhat variable, never reaches the extremes of heat or cold. So genial, indeed, is it that most plants and animals, when first introduced, assume a vigour unknown to them before, and this characteristic is common to the whole of New Zealand.

The central portion of the Middle Island, known as Canterbury, presented to the first comers a vast plain, the greater part of which was ready for the plough, the great bulk of the arable land being free from roots, stones, or impediments of any kind. The climate of this part of New Zealand is not so warm in summer, nor so mild in winter, as that experienced in the North Island. Much more might be said in its favour. These plains have long since become the great wheat growing district of New Zealand. They extend for one hundred and fifty miles north and south, running inland from the sea for forty miles, the whole forming an area of about 3,000,000 acres, nearly all of which is fit for the plough. A great portion of this vast plain is admirably adapted for the production of wheat, barley, and oats of the best quality, the growing of which is carried on extensively. The introduction of the reaper and binder has rendered this branch of farming not only practicable, but profitable. About 250,000 acres of wheat are grown annually, 150,000 acres of oats, and of barley 14,000 acres; turnips, rape, &c., 150,000 acres; potatoes, 7,000 to 8,000 acres. These are the main crops. So great is the perfection to which agricultural machinery has been brought that the labour question has little, if any, effect on the cost of production. With the improved three-furrow plough, a man, or indeed a fairly strong boy, with a team of three horses, can turn over three acres a day at a cost of 5s. per acre. A stroke of a disc or other harrow, followed by the seed-drill and light harrow, is all that is necessary, resulting in crops ranging from 30 to 80 bushels per acre without the aid of manure of any kind.

Turnip-growing is a great feature of the Canterbury Plains, for fattening sheep and lambs for freezing, to be sent to the London market, and the export of frozen mutton and lamb has become the mainstay of the farmers of the district, large and small, and 628,207 carcasses of mutton and 1,048,517 of lamb were exported during the year ending December 31, 1901. Vast as this output is, we believe that the industry is capable of still greater development. All the best breeds of sheep thrive on these pastures, and their absolute immunity from disease is conclusive evidence of the suitability of this province for the profitable raising of sheep. Previous to 1882, the inaugural year of the frozen meat trade, wool and wheat were the chief products. Farming has since assumed an entirely new phase, sheep-raising for mutton and wool being the most profitable branch. Large and small flocks of pure and cross-bred sheep are now kept on all farms, the object being the production of early lambs for freezing. The percentage of lambs is remarkably high in Canterbury, being for the paddocks 100 to 130 per cent., and for the hill and unimproved country from 40 to 60.

The Province of Canterbury can claim to possess one of the largest and most important butter factories in New Zealand, which is situated at Addington, close to Christchurch, and draws its supply from fifteen creameries located within a radius of twenty-five miles.
The output of butter from this factory alone is 1,450,000 lbs. per annum. There are also flourishing butter factories at Tai Tapu, Sefton, and Timaru, as well as the many cheese factories which are located on Banks Peninsula. Owing to the mildness of the climate, and the richness of the pastures, butter and cheese are of the finest quality.

There is no part of the British Dominions where the industrious man with moderate means can live in greater comfort than in this part of New Zealand. The land, it is true, is dearer than in some other countries, but the difference in price is far outweighed by other considerations, such as superiority of climate and the regularity of its seasons. "Seed-time and harvest" come and go, rarely disappointing the husbandman. How greatly these privileges are appreciated is shown by the fact that, when a farm is offered for sale there is always keen competition, the bidding running up to £20 and £30 per acre, which is also the case when Government offer farm settlements on the perpetual lease system.

As regards fruit-growing, all the fruits which thrive in the temperate zone flourish in Canterbury, and when properly attended to yield abundant harvests. No very systematic attempt has been made as yet to develop this industry, although considerable areas have been planted and a fairly large trade is done outside of the local demand. There is no doubt that it could be greatly extended, although it is true that the Canterbury fruit-growers have a large number of insect pests to contend against. Though the codlin moth is as yet confined to a few of our orchards, it is hoped that by carefully dressing the trees at the proper time it still may be kept under.

It is, however, only the most persistent watchfulness which can cope with this evil. Jam-making, preserving, and bottling fruit is carried on to some extent, but large quantities of plums, etc., are shipped to Dunedin and elsewhere for the same purpose.

The Canterbury Agricultural and Pastoral Association was founded in 1863, and is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. It has, perhaps, one of the finest Show Grounds in the Australasian Colonies, embracing forty acres, and situated less than two miles from Christchurch. These grounds are conveniently laid out, and ample provision is made for housing the whole of the horse, cattle, and pig exhibits. The Association's membership is about 800, and when it is considered that there are no less than four other local societies similar in character, all claiming support from surrounding farmers, it will be readily understood why the Metropolitan membership is not larger. The annual fixtures consist of the great Spring Show, held on the 9th November every year, the Show extending over three days. The People's Day (usually the 9th) attracts the very large attendance of some 25,000 persons. A parade of stallions is held in October, and in March there is an annual sale of rams, numbering usually between three and four thousand. In addition to these events, the Association publishes a "Journal of Agriculture," which is distributed free to the members; also, the "New Zealand Herd Books" of "Shorthorn Cattle" and "Cattle of Other Breeds," and the "Draught Horse Stud Book." The Association's offices are located in the Agricultural and Industrial Hall, Manchester Street, Christchurch. The Association's library is a valuable one, accessible to members at all times during office hours.

One of the most enjoyable holidays that a Christchurch sportsman can spend is a week among the red deer in North Otago, or among the fallow deer at Tapanui, in Southland. Either place can be reached in two days from town, so that the trip can be done in a fortnight. The train will land a sportsman at Tapanui, which is only a mile or two from the best shooting ground, but anyone going to North Otago must take the train to Kurow, and then go by coach to Omarama and by another conveyance from there, or drive right through from Kurow. The deer are to be found on the stations on the eastern side of Lake Hawea and up the Hunter Valley at the head of the Lake, and if the latter spot is selected, it will probably take four or five days to get through from Christchurch. The best plan for a sportsman who does not know the country is to arrange with Mr. W. G. Muir, or Mr. T. A. Munro, Kurow, for guide, conveyance, pack horses and camp equipment. The cost will be about £10 each from Kurow.

The first red deer in the North Otago district were liberated on the Morven Hills run in 1869 by the late Hon. John McLean, and so rapidly have they increased that the herd now numbers many thousands, and they occupy a tract of country about 100 miles long by 50 wide. As a good deal of the country is practically unstocked, there is abundance of feed for the deer, and in the upper part of the district there are large white birch forests that provide splendid winter cover. A sportsman who takes up deerstalking must be good at hill work, as the ranges run to 3000 to 6000 feet in height. In the country free from bush the stalking must be done from above, as the air currents are nearly always up the gullies, in the basins of which the deer are generally to be found. In the bush country, while there may not be so much high climbing, the work is rougher and even more arduous. In making the trip, one must not set out with the idea that the sport is as easy as shooting hares among the tussocks on the plains, and that good condition is not sufficient, but must be backed up with some knowledge of hill work.

ELLIMAN'S EMBROCATION ALWAYS IN STOCK.
I have had a week's sport among the fallow deer at Tapanui, and in each of the last two seasons I got my four head of red deer in North Otago, and the three trips were the most enjoyable holidays I have ever spent. In 1901 I shot four stags in seven days, and this year filled up my license in five days, so that one is sure of getting a good bag if the camping ground has been well selected. The license fee is £3 for four red stags, and £2 for four fallow bucks, and payable to the Otago Acclimatisation Society in Dunedin. Part of the country, however, in North Otago is under the jurisdiction of the North Otago Society at Oamaru, and if shooting over their country the fee must be paid to them. The season for fallow deer opens on April 1st, and the best time to be on the ground is about the 12th or 13th of that month, as the bucks begin to bark about that time. The season for red deer usually opens about the last week in March or on April 1st., and in each case lasts for two months. The heads can be mounted by Mr. Jennings, taxidermist of the Dunedin Museum, Mr. King, Lake Hawea, Mr. Salkeld, Christchurch, or Mr. Harold Hodgkinson, of Longslip Station, North Otago. The latter mounted the four heads shown in the collection of which an engraving is given, and his work, as will be seen, is most satisfactory. The charge for mounting heads is about £2 10s. each for red deer and £2 for fallow.

NEWTON'S FALLS, AKAROA
TROUT FISHING IN CANTERBURY.

By F.P.M.

Taking the principal trout rivers of Canterbury from the North, there is this much to be said. Good trout can be obtained in the Clarence, the Waiau, the Hurunui, and tributaries, but to come nearer home and within reasonable distance of Christchurch good fishing can be got in the Ashley. The mouth of this river can be reached in an eight miles drive from Kaipoi, which is only twelve miles north of Christchurch by train. Good fly fishing can be got within two miles of the mouth of the river, the best taking flies being The Yellow Tip Governor, Black Gnat, Hardy’s Favorite, and Moor-fowl. As and around the mouth of the river, good fish can be obtained with the Minnow, and these will average from 1 lb. to 10 lbs. Coming higher up the stream, we will suppose that the tourist takes train to Rangiora, from which place the river is within a ten minutes stroll. Here the same flies apply, with the addition in the early part of the season of the Blue Dun. Those who may be inclined to go further upstream, in the hope of catching larger though fewer fish, might pursue such tributaries as the Okiku, Karotu, etc., which are all within easy access of Rangiora. Baskets of thirty, or over, are not uncommon in these streams. Coming a few miles further South we strike the Waimakariri River, in which the best fishing is to be obtained within a few miles above and below White’s bridge, some nine miles distant from Christchurch. Here the fish run from 1 lb. to 16 lbs., and may be caught with artificial minnows of all sorts, of which the Whitebait Phantom is perhaps the best. A good natural bait, however, is always close to the ground in the person of the Maori Smelt, which is easily obtained in the locality. Those who are fond of mountain scenery, and who don’t mind climbing over a few rocks, or getting a bit above their waders at times may find fair sport from Springfield (42 miles west of Christchurch by train), or upwards, where, though the fly has been tried with poor success, the followers of the minnow have often put up big scores. Some five miles north of Christchurch is the Styx River, where fair fishing can be obtained with fly, but as most of the riparian ground happens to be private property, it is as well to consult the owners before operations are commenced. The flies which have proved most deadly in this stream are the Moor-fowl, Black-spinner, and Red Palmer. But coming within the easiest possible reach, and in fact intersecting Christchurch in many directions, is the river Avon. The lower waters of this river are stocked with large fish ranging on an average from 3 to 20 lbs. Owing doubtless, to the influx of whitebait, and other indigenous fish, the trout here are lazy and hard to catch, but those who use the live bait will stand the best chance of filling their creels. These remarks apply from the mouth of the river to the Hospital bridge, from which through the Acclimatisation gardens to a point opposite the hospital on the Riccarton road the river is preserved. From here to the Fendalton bridge, the west side of the river is open, but on the east side it is only open between the Armagh Street and Carlton bridges, and above the latter bridge all is private water. On the reaches mentioned the most killing flies are the Irish Moss Brown, Red-Hackled Moor-fowl, Hardy’s Favourite, and Black Spinner. Some twenty miles south of Christchurch is the Selwyn river, which affords the cream of North Canterbury fly-fishing. Starting, say by train from Christchurch, Coalgate, some thirty-seven miles distant, is reached, and it possesses a very comfortable hotel within two minutes walk of the Railway Station. Here the river is within ten minutes walk of our hostelry, and there is splendid fishing if one follows the stream upwards as far as South Malvern, or if the angler chooses to drive as far as the latter place some 3½ miles, he will find that the fish are smaller though more numerous. To give an idea as to the size of the fish here, a local angler in two evenings creel’d 87 fish weighing 55 lbs. Some four miles south of Coalgate, and following the course of the river, the Hororata, the principal tributary, joins the main stream. In this river the trout are very much larger, and baskets of fifty or sixty are not uncommon, the fish averaging from ¾ lb. to 2½ lbs. Proceeding up the Hororata river, the ownership is private, but any visiting fishermen having the ordinary rules of courtesy can always obtain permission from Messrs. Westenra Bros. and Bealey Bros., where the best fishing is to be obtained. The best flies for these waters are the Irish Moss Brown, Red Ant, Hardy’s favourite, Red Spinner, Red Tipped Governor, and Moor-fowl. One basket obtained last year at the mouth of the Hororata showed 103 trout, with the fly, in about seven hours' fishing. On the other hand, taking the Southbridge train to the lower portion of the Selwyn river, Springston, some 16 miles south of Christchurch, is reached. From here to the river, only some 3½ miles has to be traversed. Here is good fly-fishing from the Ellesmere bridge to four miles lower down the stream, the fish averaging from ½ lb. to 6 lb. One angler last season caught 18 fish weighing 38½ lbs. in an afternoon, with fly, and baskets ranging from 20 to 40 trout are not uncommon. The same flies apply here as above. On the lower waters of this river, starting from say five miles from the Springston Hotel, the river runs within confined banks, the result being deep, dead water. Here the fishing is mostly obtained by means of live bait, or spinning dead bait on Archer spinners. The fish range here from 2 lbs. to 20 or 30 lbs., and the best catches are generally made after dark. On the first night of last season, seventeen anglers grassed 384 trout, averaging 3½ lbs., between 7 p.m. and midnight, all using the live bully. Dry fly­fishers can get good sport here. Proceeding southwards from Christchurch some 35 miles, the Rakaia river is reached. On this river the best fishing is to be obtained at, or near, the mouth, where though there are no hotels, those who do not mind the temporary discomfort of camping can easily borrow a hut. As a general rule the biggest takes are made during the morning and evening hours; say between daylight and 7 a.m., and 4.30 until 9 p.m., though moderate sport may be obtained between the hours mentioned. Baskets up to 150 lbs. per rod have been made here, but the average take ranges from 25 to 60 lbs. The trout average here about 54 lbs., ranging from 1 lb. to 20 lbs. Fifty-four miles south of Christchurch is the Ashburton River, where the fish though plentiful, are as a rule small, except at the mouth where an average of from 2 to 8 lbs. is to be obtained, but the fish as a rule are shy and hard to catch. Some 20 miles further South is the Rangitata River, in which the best, and practically the whole of the fishing is at the mouth. The way of getting thither is either from Winchester or Temuka, and huts are provided for the accommodation of anglers at a small charge. The fishing here is about equal to that at the Rakaia mouth, and the morning and evening hours apply equally to the best takes made. The baits used are the Gold Devon and the Whitebait Phantom.

* Introduced into Christchurch by Mr. Clifford.
The trout average about 6 lbs., though occasionally a 20 lb. fish is to be met with, but these occasions are rare. Eight miles further South we come to the Winchester Railway Station, from whence a coach conveys passengers to the Winchester Hotel. Lovers of dry and wet fly-fishing will find splendid sport among small fish in this stream, and baskets from 30 to 70 trout are common, the fish averaging from ½ lb. downwards. From here the Otaki River is within easy reach, the lower waters of which afford fair sport with fly. Some six miles further South is the Opihi River, in which at the right time the largest trout so far caught in New Zealand by the fly have been landed. One angler last season grassed 41 trout weighing 87 lbs., on the Blue Dun, in one evening. The fish ranged from 1 lb. to 14 lbs. The favourite resort of anglers in Temuka is the Crown Hotel, in which every angler’s requisite can be obtained. Good fly-fishing can always be got in the Sans River. Going further South for another 22 miles the Pareora River is reached. This river is mainly fished in the upper waters in the early part of the season, after which the river becomes low and the fish get poor. The angler may here obtain a variety of fish, including a number of fontinalis, and occasionally a Rainbow trout. The same flies are used as in other rivers, and baskets of from 20 to 60 fish may be obtained by an ordinary expert. These fish will average about ½ lb. apiece. Eighteen miles further South is the Waihao River, which is easily reached from the Waimate Township. The upper waters afford good fly-fishing, and lower down there is both good perch and trout fishing, of course with the minnow or live bait. Some twelve miles further South is the Waitaki, the largest of our Canterbury Rivers, and the dividing line between the provinces of Canterbury and Otago. Here the best fishing is to be obtained between the Railway bridge and the mouth of the river, and the fish are large, averaging about 7 lbs., and are caught mostly with the Silver and Gold Devons and White-bait Phantom, and owing to the strength of the current, very heavy salmon gut and traces are required. Speaking generally about Canterbury fishing, it may be said that it is at least equal to that to be obtained in any other part of the world, and anglers who have had world-wide experience declare it second to none.

Andrews and Beaven, of the Canterbury Machine Works, South Belt, Christchurch.—Occupy a commanding site at the corner of the South Belt and Madras Street, opposite the Lyttelton platform of the Christchurch Railway Station. The works are capacious and lofty, and are fitted with a most complete plant for making the specialties to which the firm confine their attention.
The plant is most up-to-date and is kept in the very best condition;
very large stocks are kept of timber so as to ensure that the proper seasoning is given to it, and nothing but fully dried timber is used.
Large stocks of raw material are on hand. Those lines not procurable in the colony are kept in a large fire-proof room in the works, so that no loss by fire can affect the supply of these goods. Andrews and Beaven were the original inventors and makers of the Screw Press Self-bagging Chaff-cutter, 25 years ago, and it can safely be said of them that in this line of machines they have been "always ahead."
The firm's machines not only command the trade in New Zealand but large quantities of their machines are sent to all the Australasian colonies. For the benefit of their customers the firm maintain at eight centres in New Zealand and eight in Australia a full line of wearing parts, so that customers can be supplied at Factory prices, with any part wanted as quickly as if they were close to the works in Christchurch. The firm make 20 different kinds or sizes of chaffcutters, five different sizes of corn-crushers, five sizes of horse-gears, root-pulpers and slicers, and import grinding mills, thus having a full line of food-preparing machines for stock. For sixteen years they have given great attention to seed-cleaning machinery, and nearly all the merchants from the Bluff to Auckland have Andrews and Beaven's seed-cleaning plants; one company alone has ten large plants at work at different branches. Farmers are given a good choice of machines capable of cleaning all the various kinds of seeds they grow. Clover-shellers are made to thresh, shell and clean the seed at one operation, in a most perfect manner, and experience has demonstrated the fact that this firm's shellers is the only one that will deal with both dry and damp stuff in an effectual manner. The firm have given considerable attention to machinery for mixing

BALLANTYNE, J., AND CO., DUNSTABLE HOUSE, ESTABLISHED 1854.—The story of the growth of the firm of J. Ballantyne and Co., of Dunstable House, Cashel Street, Christchurch, contains no romance, but is the simple history of the growth of a business concern which, starting in the smallest of small ways in 1854, has by good management, judicious selection of stock, and careful attention to the requirements of the public taken the foremost place among the drapery and outfitting establishments of the colony, and at the present day the trade mark of "J. B. & Co." represents sterling values and is known from one end of New Zealand to the other.

As originally started by that grand old pioneer, Mr David Clarkson, Dunstable House, so called from Mrs. Clarkson's birthplace, and from whence she imported the straw with which she manufactured the hats, was merely a small shop for the sale of these, which were then in great demand by the early settlers, but it was not long before the growing requirements of the rapidly increasing population rendered the establishment of a general drapery business imperative. In 1863, Mr. William Pratt, who had tried his fortune in other parts of the colony for twenty years, and had found no suitable business opening in Christchurch, was returning to Lyttelton by way of the Bridle Path when he happened to meet Mr. Clarkson. A bargain was quickly struck, and in January, 1864, Mr. Pratt took charge. The business was already a large one when Mr. John Ballantyne purchased it in 1872, and since then the history of the firm has been one of uninterrupted progress and development. Unlike many of the successful business men of the colony, Mr. Ballantyne had duly served his apprenticeship to the business at Berwick-on-Tweed, and had supplemented the knowledge thus gained by thirteen years of Australian experience. After seven years of successful business, Mr. Ballantyne retired from the firm, and took up farming, for which he had always had a hankering since his boyhood. The business is at present in the hands of his three sons: - Messrs. Josiah, William, and Thorne Ballantyne. Needless to say the constant extension of business has necessitated numerous and costly alterations of the buildings, and should the present rate of development continue even more outlay will shortly be required in this direction. As it stands at present, however, the shop front, general arrangement, lighting, and stocking are second to none in the colony. The premises cover an acre of ground, and every department is under separate management, without which thorough and complete supervision would be almost impossible. The firm has always made a special study of the soft goods branch, with the result that they are fully recognised as the leading drapers of the colony. Needless to say, they are very strongly represented in London, and having a thorough knowledge of Colonial requirements, they instruct their representatives to buy nothing but the best goods obtainable on the market. Other leading departments are silks and dresses, millinery and household furnishings, etc., and large and varied stocks are always on hand. The real beehive of the establishment, however, is to be seen on the two upper floors where there are six large workrooms devoted to the dress-making industry. Altogether the firm employs 700 hands in connection with the Christchurch business, and 200 in the Timaru Branch, which, though necessarily smaller, is equally flourishing from a business point of view. The tourist, and especially the lady tourist, may be well assured that at Ballantyne and Co.'s, nothing but the best class of goods is to be obtained, whilst the selection is as varied as could be desired, and in all sartorial matters "Ballantyne's" style, fit, and finish are equal to any found in the large capitals of Australia.

Belfast Freezing Works.—These Works are the property of the Canterbury Frozen Meat and Dairy Produce Export Company Ltd., and are situated at Belfast near the Main North Road and Railway, about seven miles from Christchurch; they are the most important Freezing Works in the Colony, and a visit to them will give visitors from abroad a practical illustration of the vast proportions to which the Frozen Meat Trade has expanded. The Belfast Works can be reached either by railway or road, the latter being the most popular, the time taken being 40 minutes, and the drive through St. Albans, Papanui and Styx is a very pleasant one.

Belfast was the second Freezing Factory to be started in New Zealand; the Canterbury Frozen Meat Company was inaugurated as the result of a meeting of stockowners held in Christchurch on the 11th December, 1881. This meeting was called by circular signed by Messrs. John Grigg of Longbeach, John Macfarlane of Coldstream, and John Tinline of Amuri, and by the 15th March, 1882, a sufficient number of shares had been subscribed to register it under the Companies Act, the nominal Capital being £20,000 in 2,000 shares of £10 each, of which about 1,200 shares were then taken up. The work of obtaining site and erection of buildings and plant was at once proceeded with, and the Works were completed and opened on the 16th February, 1883; the premises then consisted of engine and boiler house, containing three small boilers, and one Haslam Refrigerator, slaughter-house for six men, cooling-room, capable of hanging 400 carcases of Mutton, and freezing and store-rooms with a capacity for 9,000 carcases in all. The first shipment of 6,198 carcases was made per “British King,” which left Lyttelton on the 8th April in the same year, and which was the first steamer of the New Zealand Shipping Company’s direct line of steamships to trade between England and New Zealand.

Since that time the work of the Company has been steadily progressive, and alterations and improvements are continually being made, until to-day they comprise, slaughter-house for 63 men, cooling-room for 10,000 carcases, beef slaughter-house for 25 head per day, a chilling-room, freezing-rooms with a holding capacity of 15,000 carcases, and frozen stores capable of holding 90,000 carcases. That these figures are not imaginary is shown by the fact that on one occasion, when shipping was deficient, the Company had over 121,000 carcases of mutton and lamb under frost. The freezing power is now supplied by two large Hercules Refrigerators, one large Hall's C.O.2. machine, and one compound Haslam's dry air machine. The combined daily freezing capacity is over 6,000 carcases.

In addition to expansion in slaughtering and freezing departments, the most interesting additions made to the Works have been those for dealing with bye-products, which have been made from time to time, and which are now all that are necessary for the economical working of a large freezing factory. These are the fell-menger, which can deal with over 6,000 skins per day, and is fitted with all the most modern appliances, drying floors, and packing rooms. The Offal Department, where the offal is boiled and converted into tallow, dried blood, bone dust, etc., etc.; the Manure Department, where these are mixed with superphosphate, etc., and made ready for use by farmers; the Preserving house for canning tongues, and Hall's p•~er.

The number of sheep and lambs slaughtered at Belfast amounts to 6,84,8637 head, of which for the year 1899, the average fell-menger would have been 374,196 skins per day, and 8,010 Sheep and Lambs were put through. To the 31st March, 1899, the Library for the use of the employees had 6,21,666 volumes.

T. H. DAVIES. The business of Mr. T. H. Davies, House Decorator and Painter (Telephone 857), 68 and 70 Colombo Road, Sydenham, has of late years rapidly increased, and, has taken its place as a leading establishment in the painting and decorating trade in Christchurch. Starting in a most unostentatious manner about sixteen years ago, Mr. Davies was content to keep in the background for a number of years, but strict attention to his numerous customers had made his workmanship famous, and during the past few years the new business has rapidly assumed such proportions that considerable trouble has been experienced in keeping pace with the demand. He employs the largest permanent staff in the trade—of any one New Zealand establishment in the same line—and in the busy season upwards of thirty hands are required to carry out the large quantity of work. On the permanent staff of workmen which he has chosen from various parts of New Zealand and elsewhere, are specialists in the numerous branches of the trade. With these experienced workmen, under his personal supervision, Mr. Davies has accomplished some of the best decorating in the City of Christchurch. In the sign writing branch of the trade, Mr. Davies undertakes the finest pictorial advertisements, and his staff includes artists capable of reproducing or designing original artistic advertisements of the highest quality.

For the decoration of interiors, designs in modern, or any period of ornament designs are submitted, and on approval, Mr. Davies undertakes the decoration of Dwellings, Churches, Halls, Theatres, and Public Rooms of any description. Amongst the numerous Public Buildings painted and decorated by him are Broadway's Rooms, Canterbury Hall, the Public Trust Offices, New Zealand Government Tourists' Offices, Sydenham Borough Council Chambers, Gas Company's Buildings, Museum, Strange and Company, Deaf and Dumb Institute, Bank of Australasia, and Ballantyne's Show Rooms. Notable private residences include those of Mr. A. E. G. Rhodes, Dr. Jennings, Dr. Morton Anderson, Mr. R. E. McDougall, Mr. J. Deans (Riccarton), Mr. Flesher, etc., etc. Mr. Davies stocks a large and excellent assortment of paperhangings, imported from the leading wall paper manufacturers of the world, and an inspection of the stock convinces anyone of the good taste and judgment exercised in the choice of the beautiful examples of papers displayed in the showroom, which by the way is a most artistically decorated and furnished room, replete with lounges and chairs of an inviting and luxurious character. All the paperhangings from the most inexpensive to the highest grade productions are chosen with a full knowledge of the requirements of the numerous customers. Mr. Davies devotes all his time to the supervision of the work entrusted to his care, which ensures the highest standard of work throughout all branches.

Ballantynes Are Military Tailors.

D.I.C., Drapery and General Importing Company of New Zealand, Limited.—Visitors to Christchurch should not fail to pay a visit to the D.I.C. The Company's extensive premises are situated between Cashel and Lichfield streets, having an entrance in both streets. To give some idea of the extent of the buildings it is only necessary to state they comprise imposing structures of three and four storey warehouses with a depth of 340 ft., the longest business premises in the southern hemisphere. The D.I.C. have also magnificent premises in Dunedin and Wellington. It is interesting to note the marvellous growth of the business in comparatively a few years. A beginning was first made in a modest way in Dunedin about 19 years ago, a year later the Christchurch premises were opened, and four years later a start was made in Wellington. Increased business in each of the three centres has necessitated frequent alterations and extensions of premises, and now at the present time the company have a total flooring space of 250,000 feet, and the D.I.C. has become a household word all over N.Z. In addition to their London House, the D.I.C. have representatives on the Continent of Europe, America, and Japan, in this way coming directly into touch with the leading markets of the world. Every department will be found replete with the latest novelties, which are constantly replenished by every steamer. The Company's turnover, being by far the largest in New Zealand, enables them to buy to the very best advantage and to sell the best quality goods at the lowest possible prices. Departments—Haberdashery, hosiery and gloves, ribbons and lace, dresses and silks, flannels and blankets, manche... tallow, makes a total of £2,881,360, omitting altogether the value of by-products, and taking no account of cattle. It has put this increased amount in circulation—enriched New Zealand by something tallow, makes a total of £2,381,269, omitting not nearly reached its limit yet. The public revenues have also greatly increased by it. The marked success of our Railways of the by-products, and taking no account

The progress of our Railways expressly built for the trade, and but for it we should not have seen in New Zealand waters any of the magnificent steamers now doing a productive trade. The industry has to be thanked for what it has done for the land. Around us we see everywhere land cultivation increasing and improving, the demand for labour greatly stimulated. The plough, the harrow, and the farmer has found out that there was no wondering whether he will after all get any return for all his expenditure of time and labour. Farms are better cropped and improved, the demand for meat increasing and improving, the demand for labour greatly stimulated. The plough, the harrow, and the farmer has found out that there was no wondering whether he will after all get any return for all his expenditure of time and labour. Farms are better cropped and improved, the demand for

New Zealand has exported no less than 33,878,979 carcases of sheep and lambs, but directly the reverse. During these years ago at Islington, the South Canterbury Refrigerating Company's business was acquired, at the request of that Company and farmers in that district, and the Smithfield Works at Timaru passed into the hands of the Christchurch Meat Company. In that year the output from the Islington Works, which in 1889 had been 180,069, had mounted up to 239,165; and the Timaru (Smithfield) Works put through 73,989 carcases. Both Works have shown a steady increase year by year, and in 1901 the returns were—Islington 692,909, Smithfield 492,092. The latter was thus treading closely on the heels of the former, having increased nearly sevenfold in eight years.

The quantities put through the Company's Canterbury Works year by year are:

Giving a grand total of 8,422,436 sheep and lambs, equal to 25 per cent of the total meat export of the Colony.
The season's return was, for the first half year ending 30th June, 1902, 934,418, as compared with the whole year's total of 1,002,860 last year, when the Christchurch Meat Company's output from its Works was 30 per cent of the total export from the Colony.

As far as Canterbury is concerned the growth of the business has been brought about by the fact that sheep-farmers and growers realise that nothing pays them so well as producing stock for the freezing works.

Very much better results could be obtained if the business was under the control of some Association. The great fault in the method of marketing our frozen meat from New Zealand is, first, the fact that there is no regularity in the shipments, and the meat sent is not forward when it is wanted. This applies so long as we confine our shipments exclusively to London. There are certain seasons in which lamb is demanded, but we cannot force Londoners to eat lamb in great quantities out of season.

It is impossible to expect a large trade in lamb, and a high price for it, during the latter half of July and August, when the London holidays are observed, and the bulk of the people are out of town.

We should first of all adopt some means of regulating our shipments, and should endeavour to control the consignments, so that they will be sent only to agents of repute who have a knowledge of the requirements of the trade and the various qualities consigned. If we do that we will be taking the first step towards obtaining regular prices, and towards a knowledge that we are getting the full value for our goods. In fact every Freezing Works should control its whole output, and either sell the same or see that consignments are handed over to reputable Agents, who are themselves not interested in buying meat. But, so long as the farmers insist in having their meat sent forward to London, whether there is a glut in the market or not; so long as they will send their consignments to irresponsible Agents—probably to small men in the market who have to realise a draft as soon as it is presented—and so long as they will send through firms who have not proper market salesmen, we must expect the present condition of affairs to continue. It only takes a very few hundred carcases sold injudiciously on the Smithfield market to bring down the price of a large quantity.
THE KAIAPOI WOOLLEN MANUFACTURING CO., LTD.—The business carried on by this Company ranks as one of the most important textile industries of the Australasian States. It comprises large mills at Kaiapoi, three Clothing Factories in Christchurch, large warehouse premises and offices in Christchurch, and branch warehouses in Wellington, Auckland and Dunedin. Tourists and visitors to the Colony are always made welcome to inspect the works and warehouses, and information regarding the numerous manufactures of the Company is very willingly afforded.

The large warehouse of the Kaiapoi Woollen Co. is situated in Cashel Street, Christchurch, not far from the offices of the Union S.S. Co. Here the visitor may see the largest stock of ready-made clothing in the Colony, made almost exclusively from cloths and tweeds made in their own mills. The stock is, of course, a wholesale one, from which all the clothiers, storekeepers and traders of New Zealand draw a large portion of their supplies. Large stocks of rugs, blankets, flannels, shirtings, tweeds, hosiery, etc., are displayed in great variety in the various departments. Spacious offices, large storerooms and capacious packing rooms all bespeak a large and flourishing business.

A pleasant drive of 12 miles along the great North Road, or a half hour's ride in the train, brings the visitor to the pretty little town of Kaiapoi on the North branch of the Waimakariri River. Close by the town are the large Woollen Mills situated on the bank of the River Cam, a tributary of the Waimakariri River. Admission to the mill is gained by ticket only, which must be obtained by application to the Head Office in Christchurch. On entrance, one is conducted over the entire mill and shown every process by which the raw and uninviting-looking wool is slowly but surely manufactured into snowy blankets, cozy rugs, and exquisite tweeds and coatings. He is shown the magnificent engine-house, with its 600 h.p. engine, and also the large electric lighting installation by which the mills, which are running night and day, are brilliantly illuminated. Every department of the industry is thoroughly organised and all the machinery of the latest and best description. The various departments which one passes through, such as the wool scouring, dyeing, teasing, carding, spinning, weaving, burling, milling, finishing, hosiery knitting.

pressing, etc., are all in charge of capable and experienced foremen from England and Scotland, and the secret of the wide fame of Kaiapoi woollen goods lies in the fact that every pound of wool used is of the best quality, and every process of manufacture is thoroughly and honestly performed.

The Clothing Factories are in Christchurch and find employment for over 650 hands. In them most of the immense quantity of tweeds and cloths manufactured by the mills are made up into ready-made clothing for men and boys. In these factories every attention is paid to the comfort and health of the operatives, who are mostly women and children. All the sewing machines are run by power, no treadle machines being in use. The workrooms are spacious and well ventilated, and all inventory arrangements are on the most ample and perfect scale. A large dining-room with complete appointments is at the disposal of the workers, and cycleries are provided for the immense number of bicycles upon which a large proportion of the operatives come to work. One large factory is devoted to the manufacture of ladies' jackets, coats and skirts, travelling capes, palétots, etc., all classes of ladies garments of fashion being a special feature of this Company's manufacture.

Branch warehouses for the storage and sale of Kaiapoi goods exist in Victoria Street, Wellington; Elliot Street, Auckland; and Moray Place, Dunedin; while the Australian agency and sample room is in Barrack Street, Sydney.

LIGHTBAND, Mr. C. D., of this city has introduced an Improved Cycle and Motor Tyre. The features for which he claims give a decided advantage over any pneumatic cycle tyre yet placed on this market. So far, all experienced riders, amongst whom Mr. G. Sutherland, champion, who have tested the tyre confirm this opinion. Mr. Lightband has had in connection with his business, travelling over the roughest of country, the advantage of ascertaining what was required to obtain an efficient and reliable tyre, added to this his thirty years' experience in all branches of the leather trade. After years of experiment and latterly with the able and practical assistance of Mr. F. A. Webster of the firm of Webster and Co., tanners, of this city (and with which firm Mr. Lightband is connected) has succeeded in obtaining a resilient leather, possessing extreme lightness, toughness, and a resiliency not yet obtained with the ordinary methods of tanning. The leather possesses many of the characteristics of rubber, at the same time being impervious to the injurious action of chemicals, heat, moisture or the ammonia from street horse manure, the most destructive agent to the fabrics now used as a foundation on which to build the rubber tyres. The resilient leather takes the place of the fabric, giving a tyre of great stability, light-running and puncture resistant. The leather tyre is covered with an outer rubber, which when worn can be repeatedly renewed at little cost; the advantage of this is self evident. Judging from the public acceptance and approval Mr. Lightband has already met with, we predict for him a most successful future, which would be only a fair reward for a useful improvement. Mr. Lightband is sanguine of shortly placing on the market other useful lines for which the resilient leather is adapted. It may be interesting to note that Mr. C. D. Lightband is a grandson of the late Mr. G. W. Lightband, who in Nelson as early as 1845 commenced tanning and dressing leather and who, previous to arrival in New Zealand in 1841, obtained experience as foreman tanner with Messrs. Dent and Co., far famed for their resilient leather gloves. Mr. C. D. Lightband is indebted in some extent to hints when a boy from his grandfather for the success he has now obtained.

MATSON, H., AND Co.—The illustration on page 221 represents an Alley-way in the Wool store of Messrs H. Matson & Co., and shows the bales as they are displayed for the inspection of intending purchasers. In this connection, it may be of interest to give a few particulars of the advance which has been made in the production and sale of the chief sources upon which Canterbury had to depend for many years for its revenue. In fact, during the fifties and well into the sixties wool was the only product which was exported in any quantity. The return supplied to the Government at the close of 1850, just at the time the Pilgrims arrived in the historical first four ships, shows that there were 1,900 bales shipped for that year from the district of Canterbury from sheep that had originally been imported from Australia; while the official return for the year ending June 31st, 1892 gives 71,349 bales shipped. The first wool auction of which any record can be found was that held by Messrs. H. Matson & Co., on January 10th, 1866, when they advertised 30 bales, in addition to any further consignments that might come forward. The sale was conducted by the late Mr. John T. Matson, in the store, which is still standing in Lichfield Street. The building, which is composed entirely of iron, was imported expressly from England and put together here. The report of the sale, which appeared in the "Lyttelton Times" of January 13th, 1866, is as follows: "The first wool sale took place on January 10th in the iron stores of H. Matson & Co., in Lichfield Street; the attendance was good and nearly every lot sold at satisfactory prices. Washed fleeces brought 1/3d. per lb., Greasy wool realised from 9½d. to 10½d., Locks and Pieces half price."

The firm, during the last year, topped the list of Wool-selling Brokers, so that their efforts have been well recognised and supported by the growers of Canterbury, and last year they headed the list with an offering of 8,244 bales for the season. The firm of H. Matson & Co. is a household word through New Zealand.

To visitors! To those seeking settling in the fairest clime of the world! To those contemplating settling in the fairest clime of the world! To those wishing to acquire property of ever-increasing value! To trustees with money for investment! H. Matson & Co. offer their services. It is often a vexed question in the minds of many, from whom they will make inquiries with a degree of certainty that they will get trustworthy and reliable information. They are also desirous of being sure that their business will be well conducted and faithfully carried out, with an assurance of absolute safety as regards information supplied and financial stability; now the firm of H. Matson & Co. (Established since 1862, for full reference apply to the Union Bank of Australia, Ltd., Christchurch; Messrs. H. Dawson & Co., Portland House, Basinghall Street, London, E.C., or Messrs. Jas. Morrison & Co. Ltd., 5, Fenchurch Street, London, E.C.) will be glad to furnish information on any point whatever; you have only to communicate with them. The members of the Firm have been brought up and served a life-time apprenticeship to the Stock and Station business, Wool Broking, Grain Agency, House, Land, and Estate Agency, and, being personally conversant with the whole of New Zealand, have the biggest and most influential connection in the colony. They are in a position to furnish, at a moment's notice, satisfactory advice and information on every subject. It is always a pleasure to the Firm to secure new clients, and they feel that once they have conducted business for clients they will always act in a like capacity.

They collect rents, invest money on mortgage and other securities if required; they represent absentees, manage estates of all kinds, and in fact carry out the whole of the business in its entirety. The abilities of their representatives as salesmen, and the expert judgment on everything appertaining to the natural productions, are recognised throughout the length and breadth of New Zealand.

Should you desire any information at all with a view to learning anything about the country, investing money, becoming a settler in the district, purchasing produce of any kind, leasing or renting a house or property, do not fail to avail yourself of the Firm, communicate with them as no trouble is too great. Last year, the Firm were the biggest wool sellers in any one centre in New Zealand, having topped the list of selling Brokers for Christchurch. They handled more live stock at the Metropolitan market than any other firm. They held more clearing sales than all the other agents put together. They sold during the last twelve months over £350,000 worth of property. You cannot afford to neglect any means of acquiring information. If you communicate with them they will send you a copy of their annual Synopsis, in which you will find a general résumé of the trade in Canterbury, also a list of their farms and agricultural properties, and their city and suburban properties.

MORROW, BASSETT AND COMPANY (T. Bassett, Sole Proprietor).—This enterprising firm was established in Christchurch in 1865 in the general ironmongery business, the old partners of the firm retiring in 1881, in which year Mr. T. Bassett took over the whole concern. It was found advisable to gradually drop the ironmongery portion of the business, and from 1886 the firm has principally confined its attention to the importation of agricultural implements, in which the celebrated

McGormick Reaper and Binder was destined to take the first place. This well-known machine has always come out on top at all public and private competitions, and many who imported inferior machines must have regretted that they had to meet so formidable an opponent. Last year the Canterbury A. and P. Association offered a gold medal for the most up-to-date implement imported or colonially made exhibited at that Show, the conditions being the most up-to-date, showing the most thought, and of the greatest use to farmers. Though this prize was by no means confined to reapers and binders, and was open to the whole field of Agricultural Industry, the judges could not do otherwise than award the gold medal to the McGormick Reaper and Binder, and it may here be worth mentioning that, though the judges had no fewer than three gold medals for distribution, the McGormick Reaper and Binder was the only machine which proved worthy of that high distinction. It is hardly necessary to point out that the other manufacturers of the McGormick Harvesting Company are in keeping, as regards excellence of finish and adaptability, for work with the above mentioned gold medal machine. These include the McGormick "Big 4" Grass Mower which has eclipsed any other mowing machine imported into the colony, and each individual sale has established an agency in itself. Then comes the "Daisy Reaper," also manufactured by this Company, which, as a clover reaper or general purpose side delivery, has proved itself an undoubted success. Those in use speak for themselves. These remarks also apply to the McGormick rakes and knife-grinders, the latter being specially adapted for the sharpening of knife sections and other edged tools; the former having proved itself to be the king of hay-rakes. Amongst the other agencies secured by Messrs. Morrow, Bassett & Co. are the Cockshutt Plow Company of Brantford, Canada; and the Sterling Bicycle Company, Kenosha, U.S.A.; the former are celebrated for their "Excelsior" ploughs and spring-tooth cultivators. The ploughs have proved themselves throughout New Zealand in past years to be equal, if not superior, to any ever in use in this colony. The demand has hitherto been in excess of the supply, and this fact alone proves the value of the particular line handled by Morrow, Bassett & Co. Every remark just made about the "Excelsior" Plow, applies with equal justice to the cultivators, and sales, efficiency and strength have amply borne out the adaptability of

THE NEW ZEALAND LOAN AND MERCANTILE AGENCY COMPANY, LIMITED, is the largest exporter of wool and grain South of the line.
It takes charge of consignments, conducts local sales throughout the colony, and undertakes all the several roles of advance, broker, and shipper, and produce placed in the hands of this enterprising firm is fully protected by funds held for value in a special "Consignment Trust" bank account. It provides the farmer with woolpacks, corn-sacks, twine, sheep dips and shears, and all the thousand and one requisites which are essential for the carrying on of the farmers' or squatters' business, and sends forward all orders with promptness and despatch. Every detail is carried out on strict business lines, and the smallest order is never overlooked or delayed. In 1901, the Company headed the list of New Zealand exporters by 4,661 bales, its total being 46,557, and for the year ending February 28, 1902, the Australasian business of the Company showed totals of 124,168 bales sold, and 61,919 shipped, making a grand total of 186,087 bales dealt with. It is worth observing that the total amount of wool sold at the London sales for 1901, was greater than in any of the preceding five years, being 1,961,000 bales as against 1,241,000 in 1897, which was the previous record. That the improvement in the sheepskin market has followed the advance in wool prices is a matter of no small moment to the farming community. The New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company does its best to further the interests of the farmer by supplying him annually with well got up pamphlets showing the total yield of the colony in every branch of Agricultura and Pastoral Industry, and giving the best of advice in regard to breeding, the getting up of products, and all details of the latest improved methods of farming, and the most up-to-date agricultural machinery. Small wonder then that a Company, which has so thoroughly identified itself with the best and truest interests of the farmer, should increase and prosper as it does. No township in New Zealand or Australia is too small for its operations; no city South of the line is too large.

REECE, EDWARD, AND SONS.—The history of the well-known firm of Messrs. Edward Reece and Sons, Ironmongers, of Colombo Street, Christchurch, is parallel with the history of Canterbury, and proportionate to the commercial development and progress of the Province. The business was established by the late Mr. Edward Reece, who, having acquired a thorough knowledge of the hardware trade in Birmingham, decided to make a home in the Canterbury Settlement. He arrived at Lyttelton in 1855 with a shipment of goods, with which he opened a shop in 1856. This business he successfully carried on for many years, extending his operations to other parts of the Colony and to Fiji. In 1879 Mr. Reece handed over the management to his eldest son, Mr. Wm. Reece, who had returned from England, where he had been sent to complete his commercial training, and the operations of the firm were finally restricted to the central establishment in Christchurch. In 1892 Mr. Wm. Reece became sole proprietor, and under his management the business has advanced by leaps and bounds. The space now occupied by the various departments runs into something like 35,000 square feet. The retail department consists of a large show-room on the ground floor, the front portion of which is devoted to the display of engineers' and mechanics' tools, builders' and cabinetmakers', brass foundry, guns, and ammunition, and general ironmongery. Lawn-mowers and garden tools of all kinds are also shown here whilst in the rear portion of this show-room will be found furnishing ironmongery, silver plate, cutlery, etc. The two upper floors are devoted to the display of register grates, tiles, mantelpieces, etc., and to reserve stocks of these lines. The wholesale department adjoining also occupies three floors, carrying large stocks of general storekeepers' requirements, coachbuilders' hardware, etc. Here also are found large reserve stocks of builders' ironmongery, lampware, brushware, etc. The brick store fronting on Lichfield Street and adjoining the main building is occupied with very extensive stocks of the cheaper grades of register grates—such as are not shown in the retail department—portable cooking and heating stoves, porcelain enamel plunge baths, copper boilers, etc. On the opposite side of Lichfield Street is the large bulk store only recently added to the firm's premises. In this store are seen hundreds of tons of the heavier class of goods pertaining to the hardware trade, such as the new colours, lubricating oils in casks, reserve stocks of "Plimsol Jr.", implements, lawn-mowers, etc. The firm is represented by travellers throughout Canterbury, and although its business is transacted chiefly within the Province, certain special lines are sent to other parts of New Zealand. The firm of Edward Reece and Sons has enjoyed the confidence of its numerous clients for close upon half a century, and there is every reason to believe that the future history of the establishment will be a record of similar success to that achieved in the past.

TYREE, ALFRED, AND COMPANY.—Boot, Leather Grindery, and Machinery Merchants, Importers, and Indenters. Head Office, Lichfield Street, Christchurch; London Office, 44 Bow Lane, E.C.; Auckland Branch, Queen Street. Banker: Bank of New South Wales. Cable address: "Tyree," Christchurch. Codes: Al and ABC, fourth edition, Western Union code, Libus code. This large and important business was originally established in 1873 by the late Mr. Gavin Gibson, who was the proprietor, and conducted the business until his death in June, 1888, Mr. Tyree having managed the establishment for some years previously. From that time till 1896 the concern was carried on under the style of Gavin Gibson and Co. In the month of June in the latter year the style of the firm was changed to Alfred Tyree & Co., the gentleman whose name appears in the title having acquired the sole proprietorship of the business. The premises occupied by this firm in Christchurch consist of a fine three-storey brick building, with basement, having a total floor space of fully 10,000 square feet. The basement of the premises, which has a floor laid in solid concrete, is used for the storage of Colonial, American, and English sole leathers, which occupy the greater portion of the flat, the other part being devoted to grindery. On the ground floor of the Lichfield Street front are the private and public offices of the firm, which are of a particularly handsome description. The public office is a fine apartment, where an accountant and several clerks are employed, three typewriters being engaged. Mr. Tyree's private room is connected by one of the most modern telephones with the various departments of the establishment, as well as with the Christchurch Telephone Exchange. A large strong room has recently been constructed on this floor for the safe custody of the books and documents of the firm. Adjoining the public office is a convenient indent sample room. Behind the offices and sample room is the leather department, where a very large stock of English, American and Continental leather is maintained, embracing French calf, East India kip, coach leathers, Moroccos, chamois, chrome leather, saddle and harness leathers, American buffs, Levant, salt and glove kids. There is also a large stock of shoemakers' tools of all descriptions, and of silk threads and dressings, etc. Ascending by a splendid staircase to the first floor, the writer was struck with the immense stock of imported boots and shoes in all varieties, including mining boots, goloshes, plimsolls, tennis shoes, and English, Continental and American goods, in almost every conceivable style and quality. At one end of this floor are two sample rooms, one of which is specially set apart for indent purposes, samples of the goods of no less than 120 of the principal manufacturers of the world being displayed for the convenience of the customers. The other room is known as the stock sample room, the goods displayed representing the manufactured and imported goods of the firm. The indent office adjoins these sample rooms. At the time of the writer's visit, the counters which extended the whole length of two sides of the building, were covered with piles of boots and shoes, which had been gathered together for the purpose of executing orders, and would be, in the course of a few hours, packed up and despatched to various parts of the colony. Every floor of this fine warehouse is connected by means of a large lift. The power for working the lift is supplied by a six-horse power Otto gas engine, which is found in a new building erected alongside at the back of the warehouse. Behind the main premises are several sheds utilised for the storage of rubber and bulk goods, including the safe custody of bicycles used by the employees of this firm. The business now conducted by Messrs. Alfred Tyree & Co. was originally commenced as a boot, leather grindery and boot machinery indenting business. Messrs. Alfred Tyree and Co.'s business extends throughout the entire colony including the Chatham Islands. There are eight travellers constantly moving among the customers of the firm.

taking orders from traders in all parts. Their customers include not only boot and shoe vendors, but saddlers and harness makers, coach builders, and other traders. Owing to the enormous extension of the business of the firm, which has more than doubled within the present decade, a branch of the warehouse has been established in Queen Street, Auckland, from which, as a centre, the Auckland Provincial District is worked under the management of Mr. J. J. Hobbs. The stock kept by this firm, which is of the value of some £30,000, is drawn from the best markets of the Old World. Complete facilities exist for purchasing the latest styles and qualities of goods in every class, through the expert buyers employed at the firm's London office. A large business is done in indenting, whereby customers have the opportunity of becoming importers; the whole of the facilities enjoyed by the firm in the matter of buying being thus placed at their disposal. The firm are also exporters of Colonial leathers.

WARNER'S NEW HOTEL, CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND.—An up-to-date Hostelry. Extract from the "Lyttelton Times," October 9th, 1901:—It will be remembered that nearly two years ago the front of Warner's Hotel was destroyed by fire, and for a considerable time the buildings presented a very unsightly appearance. Now, however, matters have been altered, and, Phoenix-like, a handsome and substantial brick building has arisen to take the place of the old wooden structure, and the hotel is now an ornament to Cathedral Square, as well as a very fine addition to the buildings of the city. Mr. Percy Herman, who, with Mrs. Herman, has had considerable experience in conducting first-class hotels in the North Island, having secured a long lease of the hotel, gave instructions to Mr. J. C. Madison to prepare plans for an up-to-date hostelry, and these have now been carried out in a manner which makes the old-fashioned "Warner's" Hotel one of the most complete and comfortable in the colony. The proprietor, although well known in the North Island, was but little known here, although an old Christchurch boy, until lately, but from the manner in which he has catered for several important functions which have been held at Warner's during the past few months, it is evident that he is the right man in the right place, and in his efforts he has been ably seconded by Mrs.

A. J. WHITE'S FURNISHING WAREHOUSE, CHRISTCHURCH.—This business was started by the late Mr. A. J. White in 1863 in very small premises in Lower High Street; success attended his efforts from the first, and in a few years he found it necessary to seek more accommodation and was fortunate in securing an extensive section of land at the corner of Tuam and High Streets, upon which buildings have been erected and extended from time to time as the business increased, until now it is by far the largest Furnishing Warehouse in the Colony. This Warehouse contains the largest and most extensive up-to-date stock of every description of House Furnishing requisites in the Colony, the premises including the workshops and timber yard cover an area of over one acre, having a frontage of 200ft. to Tuam Street and extend right through to St. Asaph Street. On entering from Tuam Street the first thing that strikes us is the enormous stock of Carpets of every description, Turkey, Axminster, Wilton, Brussels, Tapestry, Kidderminster and other makes. Passing on and ascending a broad staircase, we come to showrooms stocked with every kind of Dining-room, Drawing-room, Bedroom, Hall and Library Furniture, the quality and style of which would do credit to any establishment of the kind in any part of the world; continuing on and descending by another staircase, we come to the China and Glass Department, here we find wares from all the leading makers, such as the Worcester Royal Porcelain Co., Doulton, Wedgwood, etc., etc. Passing on we find ourselves in a large Department devoted entirely to Linoleums and Floorcloths. The extent of the stock held in this line is evidence of the large business done in floor covering. Another Department it occupied entirely by every description of Furnishing Hardware, Electro-Plated Ware, Brushware, Laundry, Dairy and all kinds of Culinary requisites; in fact, we cannot conceive a more up-to-date establishment whereat to purchase a single article or completely furnish the smallest cottage or fashionable mansion. The hands employed in the Warehouse and Factories number upwards of 100. Everything in connection with the Furnishing trade is carried on here—storage of furniture, packing and forwarding, removing, steam carpet beating and cleaning, valuing and packing of whole houses of furniture and effects, lock, stock and barrel. The late Mr.
A. J. White was an exemplary man of business, upright and honourable to a degree. He died in 1895, at the age of 60 years. The business is carried on by Trustees in his Estate under the management of Mr. J. Coles, who has been connected with the establishment upwards of thirty-four years.

ASHBY, BERGH & COMPANY, LIMITED, HARDWARE MERCHANTS.—
This business was established in 1863 in a very small shop on the same site at present occupied by the firm's wholesale and retail premises, 217 High Street. Before many years were past, it became necessary to enlarge the premises and increase the staff; and this general increase has continued until, at the present time, every available inch of ground space has been built upon to cope with the increasing and ever-growing wholesale and retail business. In addition to their fine building in High Street, the firm have a very large store and yard in Hereford Street, where all the heavier and bulkier lines are kept.

and the most successful which the world has ever seen. It commenced with very small beginnings, having, at the close of the first year of its existence, only accumulated a fund of £256, and an annual premium revenue of £349, but since then, it has not only accumulated an enormous fund of £18,000,000, but has repaid to the members or their representatives no less a sum than £18,205,416 since its establishment, and now has an annual revenue of about two and a half millions, truely a magnificent record. The Policy Holder—an English insurance periodical—in referring to the Society's operations, states that "it has the world's record for paying the largest bonuses." It has erected handsome buildings in the four centres, Wellington, Auckland, situated in the first named city, under the management of the Local 1885; they have offices in every New Zealand centre, and the head office for the colony is at Grey Street, Wellington. Illustrated pamphlet sent post free on demand.

BELLIN Bros., CASHEL STREET, CORSET MANUFACTURERS.—One of the oldest established firms in this line of business, make a speciality of Saranaparilla, which has held its own in New Zealand ever since it was first put on the market.

BEARDSLEY and Son, 80 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Supply every kind of photographic appliance, from the Cinemograph to the Magic Lantern, and from same to photographic chemicals and sundries. Don't forget, Beardsley and Son, 80 Manchester Street, Christchurch.

BENT and TOWNIE, 104 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Run one of the leading Cycle Establishments in the colony, and specially cater for the requirements of tourists and visitors. The firm stock a large variety of cycles and cycle requisites, and are sole agents for the Mitchell motors, fitted to "Khaki," and are the holders of the prize for the New Zealand Hill-climbing Competition with motor cycles. They are the sole makers of the celebrated "Khaki" cycle, and have agencies throughout the Colony.

BISHOP and Company, WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS, ARMAGH STREET, (OFF COLOMBO ST.).—This business was established on a site in Colombo Street in 1854, by the late Mr. Joseph Dann, who was joined a few years later by the late Mr. F. A. Bishop, the father of the present proprietor, the firm being known as "Dann and Bishop," and thus continued for some years. On Mr. Dann retiring, Mr. Bishop was joined by his brother, the late Mr. E. B. Bishop, under the style of "E. B. and F. A. Bishop," the business being transferred to what was known as "Alport's Auction Rooms," at the corner of Armagh and Colombo Streets, and was conducted there till the old building was removed in 1881, to make room for the present block.

Mr. E. B. Bishop retired in 1879 when the present proprietor was initiated into the mysteries of business. In 1887, Mr. F. A. Bishop retired, and his son, Mr. F. C. B. Bishop succeeded him, and has remained connected with it ever since. In 1894 Mr. Maitland Gardiner joined Mr. Bishop in partnership, and on this lapsing by effluxion of time in 1899, he admitted Mr. E. Robson, but this latter partnership only existed till 1900, since which date Mr. Bishop has conducted the business entirely "on his own." The business has always been favourably known for the good quality of its goods, and every effort has been, and will be made, to maintain the reputation so well earned. The principal agency held by Bishop and Co. is that of Messrs. Thom and Cameron, Limited, of Glasgow, the well-known distillers, and stocks of their celebrated "Bob Roy," "V.B.O.H.," "Re-vatted Old Highland," and "Finest Old Highland," whiskies are always held by them.

Bluff Hotel, Collgate.—This hotel is situated about forty miles from Christchurch, and is only five minutes' walk from the famous Selwyn river, the finest trout stream in Canterbury, and trains run twice daily. The accommodation is replete with every comfort, special attention being made for tourists and the travelling public. Horses and traps on hire to convey travellers about the district for shooting and fishing parties. The finest wines, spirits, and ales only kept.

H. Patton, Proprietor.

Bonnington, G., Chemist, High Street, Christchurch.—Has established his present place of business for 35 years, and has given satisfaction to all. For coughs, colds, etc., his Doctoral Oxytel of Carrageen, or Irish Moss, is hard to beat, while his remedies for liver complaint or temporary unfitness are well worth a trial. It may be readily imagined that an experience of 35 years is of no small value to clients.

Broadway, Messrs. W. and E.—Run the largest Confectionery Shop, and up-to-date Tea-rooms in Christchurch. They are established at Hobbs' Buildings, Cathedral Square, just opposite the North door of the Cathedral. Since the establishment of the business in 1896, it has grown so rapidly that on two occasions the proprietors have had to acquire further accommodation, and the business is now the premier one of the colony.

Brosnahan, S., Sunken Hotel, Sumner.—The proprietor and his wife have, by steady attention to business, built up a sea-side trade second to none in Canterbury. Guests can rely upon receiving every attention, and nothing is sold which is not first-class.

Brown, J. P., 171 High Street, Christchurch.—Makes a specialty of importing the best cutlery, scissors, spoons, forks, razors, etc., which can be obtained in the markets of the world. He has always large stocks of engineers', carpenters', mechanics' and wood carvers' tools in hand, and his name is a guarantee for quality. Remember J. P. Brown, 171, High Street.

Brown's Highbury Laundry, 65, Armagh Street.—Can be depended upon. It is no new show, as it has given every public satisfaction since 1873 to high and low, from the Earl of Onslow downwards. Both as regards machinery, hand-workers, and plant, there is nothing better in the market. Small profits, and quick and clean returns is the motto of this business. Hotels regularly waited upon.

Brownie, C. J., Ocean View Hotel, Governor's Bay.—It is so well-known as to need but little comment. This favourite Sunday and holiday resort does not lack patronage. Apart from the excellent view of the harbour, the hotel is the regular stopping place of the Lyttelton-Teddington coaches. All meals and liquors up-to-date.

Bruce, Messrs. W. J., and Co.—Are the Christchurch Agents for the Fine Old Scotch Whisky manufactured by Daniel Crawford and Son, of Glasgow. This brand only needs one trial to be appreciated. The same firm also acts for the celebrated Kola Nip Tonic; the well-known brands of Great Western Vineyard Wines of Messrs. Irvine and Co., well-known as prize-takers at the shows of the Melbourne Agricultural Society, and for the very excellent malt beer brewed by the Victoria Brewery Co., Christchurch, which has fairly won its way in the various Working Men's Clubs, etc.

Buelland, C. W., Bruce Hotel, Anahoa.—Offers excellent accommodation for tourists, being immediately opposite the jetty and the baths. This hotel is also the starting point of the Little River and Pigeon Bay coaches, and clients may depend upon obtaining accommodation second to none.

Burton, Henry, and Co., 144 and 146 High Street, Christchurch.—Are noted for their Speciality Easy Wicker Chairs which have gained prize medals wherever exhibited in the Colony. Come and see for yourselves, the choice is endless, and you can note every detail of manufacture.

Bush, W., and Sons, 200 Cashel Street.—Are a firm of painters and decorators which has been established in Christchurch since 1857. For illuminated addresses, ticket and sign writing, they are hard to rub out. Address, W. Bush and Sons, 200 Cashel Street. Telephone 1062. "When collared pat down."

Christchurch and Timaru.
CASSIDY, H., AND COMPANY, COACH PROPRIETORS (COBB & CO.), SPRINGFIELD.—For more than a quarter of a century this enterprising firm has safely conveyed passengers across the Alpine ranges and the brawling torrents which are such distinctive features of New Zealand mountain scenery. The horses and drivers are admitted to be the best in the Southern Hemisphere, the coaches and gear are always kept in the best of condition, and many members of the staff have been on the road since 1891. The experience, care and skill, which has been brought to bear upon the running of this road has eliminated accident from the calculations, and has made the road famous throughout the Australasian colonies. Mr. P. A. Herman, of Warner's Hotel, is the Christchurch agent, and intending passengers can get all information from him. The coaches leave Springfield for Otira Gorge every Tuesday and Friday, returning on Wednesday and Saturday, and the passengers leave Christchurch by the 8 a.m. train on those days. Those who have never been on this trip should not miss the opportunity. There are not many coach roads in the world like it.

CASTLE HILL HOTEL, WEST COAST ROAD.—The hotel is situated twenty miles from Springfield, on the main West Coast Road, and Cobb's coaches call four times a week. The Hotel is replete with every comfort, and tourists will find plenty of shooting and fishing within a short distance of the hotel. Nothing but the best wines, spirits, and ales, are kept in stock. Horses and traps on hire. Telegrams and letters will receive prompt attention from C. C. McLachlan, proprietor.

CENTRAL PHOTO STORES, 204 CASHEL STREET, CHRISTCHURCH, (OPPOSITE MESSRS. BALLANTYNE & Co.).—Keep a large stock of all kinds of photographic materials and requisites, and a dark room where clients and visitors may do their own developing. The firm also undertakes all classes of photographic printing, enlarging and developing, and supplies first class advice free, and the best materials at moderate prices. All Camera lovers, whether "fends" or otherwise, should visit the Central Photo Stores.

CHRISTCHURCH SANITARIUM, OR HEALTH HOME, PAPANUI, CHRISTCHURCH.—The promoters of this institution believe that the natural methods here employed cause a recognition of the rôle played by Nature in the restoration of the sick. Health being a quality... inherent in the individual, we do not believe that it is obtainable by potions swallowed. The diet question receives particular attention. Science has demonstrated the unhealthfulness and danger of modern dietetic habits. Exercise, by its influence on all animal life, is recognised as a natural restorative agent. It is confidently believed that the application of the plans of treatment employed puts the patient in an environment which is the most conducive to health. The homely air of the place is very beneficial, and in itself conducive in this direction. The methods of treatment have been well tested, and have been in use in similar institutions for many years.

City Hotel, Dunedin, J. A. Turner, Proprietor.—Is one of the oldest established and most comfortable hostelries in the Edinburgh of the South. Telephone 608, P. O. Box 219.

Clarke, Thomas, Cave Rock Hotel, Summer.—Is always ready to welcome visitors. The spacious balcony commands a splendid view of the sea, the liquor is first-rate, and the charges are strictly moderate.

Clifford, Photographer, 171, Cashel Street, Christchurch.—Is not to be beaten in New Zealand. Clients may make appointments for sittings at any hour between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The specimens of work which are exhibited in the vestibule speak for themselves. Tourists should remember Clifford, 171 Cashel Street, who is always to be found during business hours at Telephone 1096.

Coates, Messrs. G., and Co., Watchmakers and Jewellers, of 218 Colombo Street, Christchurch.—Started business at Nelson in 1851, removing to Christchurch ten years later. They are sole agents for the Lazarus Specalite Spectacles and Eye-glasses, are practical and artistic gold and silversmiths, and keep a large and varied stock of clocks, watches, chains, and rings of every description. Special attention is paid to the repair department.

Cook, Frank A.—The photograph on page 46 represents an ordinary day at Frank A. Cook's, the carts being just despatched with the morning's first delivery of groceries. This establishment holds the record for keeping the best and largest assortment of table delicacies in the colony, many demands being made from others in the trade.

both in the North and South Islands. Mr. Cook also exports on account of clients in Calcutta, Straits Settlements, &c., large quantities of hams, bacon, butter and cheese, and holds unsolicited testimonials as to quality of the same. In connection with the Christchurch business a dairy factory is worked at Cheviot, and has been very successful on several occasions in securing first prices at the Agricultural and Pastoral Shows. Bacon cured from pigs fed at Cheviot is in great demand, being of splendid flavour and quality. Mr. Cook has also started—for the colonies—a new industry, viz., the preserving of meats in glass jars which more than favourably compare with the imported article. They comprise ham and chicken, turkey and tongue, boar's head, English brawn, oysters in aspic, etc., etc.

Craid, D., and Company, Booksellers, Stationers, Printers and Newsagents, 210 Colombo Street North, Christchurch.—Have a large assortment of books of Christchurch and New Zealand views. Tourists should call and inspect their stock of New Zealand and Maori pictorial post-cards, their leather purses, wallets, and pocket books, their writing-desks and photo albums, and their tourists' road maps. All leading magazines, newspapers, and the best brands of stationery stocked.

Crichton Hotel, Akaroa, G. H. Mackay, Proprietor.—Is one of the leading hotels in Akaroa. Well sheltered, and close to the sea, it is an ideal spot for the visitor or tourist. The charges are strictly moderate, and both host and hostess spare no pains to accommodate their guests.

Cross, Frederick, and Son, 164 Hereford Street, Christchurch.—Has at the head of the firm a gentleman whose name has been a household word in business circles for many years. The specialty of Fred. Cross and Son is as Brokers for New Zealand grain, seeds, and produce, and as financial agents for farmers, but to these the firm adds agencies for British and foreign manufacturers, several agencies for special brands of spirits, such as that for Teacher and Sons' Highland Cream Whisky, the Admore (Aberdeencshire) Distillery, Tennant's Pilsner Lager Beer, and Allopp and Sons, India Pale Ales and Beers.

Crown Brewery, The, Antigua Street, Christchurch.—Is one of the oldest established breweries in Christchurch, and supplies most of the leading hotels and clubs. This brewery has taken more than forty prize medals for ales and stout at the leading Shows and Exhibitions of New Zealand, and the brewing is conducted upon the most modern and scientific principles. All orders to Telephone 108 will be promptly attended to.

DAVIS, J. G., Florist, Richmond.—If there is one thing more than another that Christchurch prides itself on it is its beautiful resorts, and amongst these may be mentioned J. G. Davis's Nursery at Richmond, Christchurch, within 10 minutes of the city. Visitors taking an interest in plants can always be sure of seeing rare plants of some description from all parts of the world. Nothing possessing beauty is too insignificant. Miniature orchids representing spiders and some sensitive, are interesting as being indigenous to New Zealand, and beautiful Cattleyas, Dendrobins, Odontoglossums, Cypripediums, etc., from tropical regions. Two acres of beautiful herbaceous and bulbous plants are also in evidence. Over 300 varieties of narcissus, and upwards of 200 varieties of carnations, a speciality with Mr. Davis, can be seen at the different seasons. We strongly recommend a visit to this grand nursery.

Dawson, Stewart, & Co.—Are the largest Jewellers in New Zealand, and their Christchurch place of business is in High Street. They have big shops in each of the principal New Zealand centres, and their stock is well worth inspection.

DENNIS BROS., WHOLESALE AND RETAIL FISHMONGERS, AND LICENSED DEALERS IN GAME.—Have their place of business at 55, Victoria Street North, Christchurch, and have being going since 1864. They have received special appointments from various Governors of New Zealand during that period, and make a point of filling all shipping orders. All orders by Telephone 712 will receive the promptest attention, and the quality of the goods is beyond question.

DERRETT, THOMAS, COACH PROPRIETOR OF CULVERDEN AND WAIARU—Runs Coaches from Culverden to Hanmer Plains; from Culverden to Waiari and Kaikoura, and from Waiari to Mendip Hills, Hawkswood and Mount Parnassus. Special conveyances or saddle horses along the above routes can be supplied at any time.

DIX, PERCY HENRIDI, sole proprietor of dix's GAIETY COMPANIES, AND lessee of the opera house, tuck street, Christchurch.—Was born in Launceston, Tasmania, and received his education at the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Dix has been connected

Those who know the excellence of the manufactures of Messrs. H. Macle and Co. require no telling; those who do not had better give the firm a trial.

McGavin & Co., Brewers & Bottlers, Union Brewery, Water of Leith, Dunedin.—The large brewing business now conducted by the firm of McGavin & Co. was established in 1882 by the late Mr. George McGavin, associated with Mr. Alexander McGregor and the late Mr. W. H. Smith, under the style of McGavin, McGregor, and Smith. Mr. McGavin, the surviving partner, was succeeded by his nephew in 1896. The land occupied by the malthouse and brewery comprises one and a half acres freehold. The buildings are extensive and complete, and include two breweries and malthouses. The plant is thoroughly up-to-date in every respect. The granary is capable of storing 2,000 packs of grain, and the malting floor can find room for 150 bushels at a time. The cellars comfortably hold 300 hogsheads, and 20,000 packs of grain can be stored in another malthouse. Another cellar stores 600 hogsheads. The extensive cooper's plant, which turns out tanks from 110 gallons capacity down to small kegs, is regularly supplied with Oak staves from England, and Kauri staves from Auckland. A large bottling branch is worked in conjunction with the business, and, in all, thirty hands are kept in constant employment.

Messrs. McGavin & Co. have gained three gold medals, in open competition, in New Zealand, in Melbourne, and in Tasmania, and their record has still to be wiped out.

McIntyre, D. C., and Co., Custom House, Shipping, Receiving, Forwarding and Express Agents, Cashier Street, Christchurch.—Have correspondents and agents in all parts of the world, and undertake all branches of indenting work. In addition to this they run a very big Pickle Manufactory, and the fame of this product has reached beyond New Zealand. All orders by Telephone 76 will be promptly met.

MacKay, G. B., Christchurch Hotel, Akaroa.—Runs a first-class show, and the house is exceptionally clean and well furnished. The tourist who visits this Hotel is not likely to regret his choice.

Magonochite.—The largest dealer in the world in fresh herrings, kippers, herrings in tomato sauce, camp pies, pâtés, pastes, sauces, etc., has placed his New Zealand Agency in the hands of Messrs. Ellis and Marton of Wellington, who are prepared to supply all orders. All tins used by Magonochite are hermetically sealed without the use of solder or nails, thus avoiding the dangers which attend other processes.

Manned, Miss M. A., No. 3 Homes' Buildings, Cathedral Square, Christchurch.—Is an artist, the holder of certificates from the South Kensington School of Arts. She holds classes for oils, water-colours and sketching. Full terms on application.

Manning's Empire Hotel, Wellington.—Is one of the best houses in the colony. It extends from Willis Street to Victoria Street, and is worthy the patronage of all Home, Colonial, or foreign visitors.

Manning, R. H., of the Kalpoz Hotel, Akaroa.—Is a house­hold word with football teams and tourist parties. He has had long experience in his trade, and in addition to keeping the best of refreshments, he serves up a family dinner which will challenge comparison in any country town.

Manufield, J. B. and Sons, Manchester Street (near the Christchurch Railway Station).—Have been established as Monumental Masons since 1863. They have a large and varied stock

MASON, Mrs. G. E.—Women, nowadays, are beginning to understand that with a little care and trouble they may make themselves look very much prettier and younger looking and keep away all those marks that go to make one look old. Mrs. G. E. Mason while travelling in England saw what an advantage the Home people had over us in having trained specialists for the face and hair, so she determined to undergo a course of study and establish an agency here to give us the benefit of her great experience. She therefore studied under Madame Dean, the famous specialist at Rome, and there won the highest English certificate, and, of course, is justly proud of being the only lady in New Zealand having that honour. If people knew how very pleasant and inexpensive face massage is, they would make a point of going very often. Only one treatment does a wonderful lot good and it is so refreshing. I enjoyed it thoroughly. Mrs. Mason has now a splendid business in that particular branch. Mrs. Mason keeps a large number of face lotions and creams, which she makes up herself, having bought her formula from Madame Dean when in London. I advise all my readers to pay Mrs. Mason a visit and I am sure they will be charmed with everything.

MASONIC HOTEL, NAPIER, FRANK MOELLER, Proprietor.—Is one of the most up-to-date houses in New Zealand. Tourists can rely upon receiving every comfort and convenience at this salubriously situated hostelry, and the management spares no pains in acquainting visitors with the fullest information as to what can be seen and done in the vicinity.

MATSON, Mr., Conway—Who will have started business before this Guide is in the hands of its readers, has had 33 years' experience of the business in Auctioneering, Land, Estate and General Agency branches in Canterbury, in connection with the well-known firm of H. Matson and Co., and all departments of the business will be under his personal supervision. Mr. Wm. Matson has had several years' business experience in the city in connection with the New Zealand Insurance Company. The business premises are centrally situated, and the sale room is large and easily managed, being on the ground floor.

BALLANTynes' STOCKS ARE MODERATE IN PRICE.
Messer's Patent, Once worn, never left off. Directions for self-measurement can be obtained from any of the local offices.

Mitre Hotel Lyttelton, R. J. Henry, Proprietor. — The Mitre is one of the leading hotels of Lyttelton, and provides first-class accommodation at a moderate figure. The house is fitted with every modern appliance, and contains a first-class billiard room. Only the best of liquors stocked.

Munnings, Messrs. J. and A. W., Addington. — Have for many years been celebrated as the best Jam Manufacturers in the Canterbury District, and the most fastidious can find no fault with their products. Real pure, home-made jam is not to be bought on the market every day, and yet last year Messrs. Munnings turned out more than 40 tons of this important article of family diet. Their Raspberry Vinegar has also won the high approval of the Canterbury public. When ordering, remember Munnings and Co., Addington.

Munro and Hickinbottom, Merchant Tailors (just on the northern side of the Colombo Street Bridge). — Are in a position to offer their customers a wide choice of Trouserings, Coatings, and Worsted's, all imported by themselves. Fit and satisfaction guaranteed.

MURPHY, MRS. P. J., Jubilee Laundry, 184 Kilmore Street. — The first prizewinner at the Canterbury Jubilee Industrial Exhibition, has through the excellence of her work won special appointment to the Governor of New Zealand, is qualified to undertake the finest kinds of ladies' and men's work, and makes a specialty of ladies' dresses and men's shirts and collars.

NELSON, MOATE and CO., Messrs. — What Messrs. Nelson, Moate and Co. claim on behalf of their fragrant teas may well be said regarding the firm itself. A business that has been established for over twenty-one years, and which runs branch establishments in Wellington and Dunedin, sells a pliable and durable corset known as Messer's Patent. Once worn, never left off. Directions for self-measurement can be obtained from any of the local offices.

NEW ZEALAND SHIPPING COMPANY.—The New Zealand Shipping Company performs a regular monthly passenger service between New Zealand and London, via Monte Video, Teneriffe, and Plymouth. The passenger steamers being all new twin screw vessels of six to eight thousand tons, which are replete with every modern convenience for the comfort of passengers. In addition to the steamers engaged in this service the Company possesses a large fleet of first-class cargo steamers of from four to six thousand tons, which are despatched at regular intervals, most of which carry saloon passengers at reduced fares. The New Zealand Shipping Company's Line is the only regular steamship service from the colonies to Monte Video, forming thereby the most direct route from Australasia to the Argentine. The Company has branches and agencies throughout Australia and New Zealand, the registered Head Office being 159 Hereford Street, Christchurch.

NORWICH UNION FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY, THE.—An Insurance Office of over 100 years standing, and which ranks among the leading English Companies, sets forth on page __ the advantages of insurance.

PANNELL, C., TAILOR AND MERCER, 127 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Devotes himself specially to high-class tailoring and tourists' work, and always keeps a large stock of first-class gentleman's mercery on hand. His West of England and Scotch tweeds would be hard to beat anywhere.

PANNELL, H., 93 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH (Telephone 435).—Has been firmly established on his present premises for more than 20 years, and holds a special appointment as Bootmaker to the Governor of New Zealand. He fills orders for ladies', men's, and children's boots of every description, and makes a specialty of leggings, gaiters, spats, and military accoutrements.

PETERSEN, B., AND CO., MANUFACTURING JEWELLERS, DIRECT IMPORTERS, AND DIAMOND MERCHANTS, 222 HIGH ST., CHRISTCHURCH,—are one of the oldest established of Christchurch firms, and their reputation has kept pace with the rapid growth of their business. The stock is large enough and sufficiently varied to suit all tastes.

BALLANTYNES' PRICES ARE REASONABLE.
The firm consists of Messrs. Robert and William Pitcaithly, and carries on a large business in Shipping and Insurance Broking, Customs Commission, Forwarding, and General Agents, and Mr. Robert Pitcaithly is Consular Agent for the United States of America. In addition to this the firm is agent for the Eastern and Australian Steamship Company, which runs steamers fortnightly to China and Japan, The Messageries Maritimes, North German Lloyd's, and general London, Colombo, and Suez freights. The same firm owns and runs the "John Anderson" in the Peninsula trade, and the "Cygnet" to Cheviot and Kaikoura. The firm is also agent for the Alliance and Phoenix Insurance Companies.

POPE, MRS., MORTEN'S BUILDINGS (opposite the Bank of New Zealand), CHRISTCHURCH.—Is an expert in English and German wools, silks, lace, braid, etc., and keeps the latest novelties in needlework. She is the sole New Zealand agent for Weldon's Paper Patterns and American Rag Dolls, and keeps a large stock of Maori curios.

RAY, CHARLES, ENGINEER AND CYCLE MANUFACTURER, WORCESTER St., CHRISTCHURCH.—Undertakes all kinds of plating, lacquering, gilding, and bronzing. His "Acme" cycles have won well deserved fame in Christchurch, and he makes a speciality of repairing any class of bicycle. All orders entrusted to him will be well and promptly executed. Don't forget, Charles Ray (next door to the Tramway stables), Worcester Street, central.

ROBERTSON, WILLIAM, RED ROSE BAKERY, 104 VICTORIA STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Has done so well in his trade as to earn his appointment as baker to the Governor of New Zealand. Besides all kinds of bread and fancy goods, Mr. Robertson makes a speciality of wedding cakes and digestive biscuits.

ROPER, E. W., AND Co.—In the North-west corner of Cathedral Square are the premises of Messrs. E. W. Roper and Co., Importers, established in 1868. There is no well known brand of spirits, wines, cigars, etc., which cannot be obtained here, and the quality of all goods sold is beyond cavil. An advertisement in another part of this issue will give an idea of the ground covered by this enterprising firm.

ROYAL HOTEL, WAIMATE, SOUTH CANTERBURY, ESTABLISHED 25 YEARS.—This first-class hotel is acknowledged by tourists and the travelling public to be second to none in South Canterbury. Visitors will receive the best attention. The rooms are lofty and beautifully furnished, and include private suites of apartments. The Cuisine is under the management of a first-class chef. The sample rooms for commercial travellers are well lighted, and an express meets every train. Nothing but the finest wines, spirits, ales and cigars are imported. Telegrams and letters will receive prompt attention. H. Middleton, Proprietor.

J. BALLANTYNE & CO., GENERAL DRAPERS.

SANDSTEIN, M., AND SON, JEWELLERS, CASHEL STREET, WEST, CHRISTCHURCH.—Have been established in that city “since the year one,” and keep one of the largest jewellery stocks in New Zealand. They make a specialty of the manufacture of New Zealand Greenstone ornaments, and those travellers, who wish to take away with them a memento formed of the most celebrated green jade in the world, cannot do better than inspect Messrs. Sandstein’s stock.

SANDSTEIN, Messrs. E RNEST M., D.B.O.A. AND F.S.M.C. (LONDON), CONSULTING OPTICIAN AND SPECTACLE SPECIALIST.—Is always to be found at his rooms, Cashel Street, West, over Messrs. Sandstein and Sons’ Jeweller’s shop. His regular consulting hours are from 9.30 a.m. until 1 p.m., and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m., though appointments may be made for any hour, as the artificial light arrangements are perfect. Eye prescriptions by any qualified doctor carefully prepared.

SANDERS AND CO., EMBRACE WATER AND CORNIAL MANUFACTURERS, 61 ST. ASAPH STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Have been established in business since 1882, and the subsequent history of the business has been one of uninterrupted progress and development. Their delivery carts are constantly at work in city and suburbs, so that no time is lost in filling orders with promptness. The quality of their wares is beyond exception.

SCOTT AND BROWN, MRs. ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS, 55 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Carry on their business under every branch of their profession, and supply wire, lamps, cables, dynamos, or any other article which may be needed. The largest continuous current dynamos which have been erected in Christchurch, have been set up by this enterprising firm, which is ready to supply estimates to any part of the Colony.

BALLANTYNES ARE THE LEADING DRAPERS IN N.Z.
SHACKLOCK, H. E., LIMITED, SOUTH END FOUNDRY, PRINCES STREET, DUNEDIN.—Is the maker of the celebrated Orion Ranges, of which there are 40,000 in use in the Colony. The ranges are automatic, and need no attention, and can be worked either with a chimney or an ordinary stove-pipe. Lignite, coal, or wood, up to 24 inches in length, will serve as fuel. The firm also supplies Tomb-railings, Iron Fretwork, and general castings, at lowest current rates. Remember, H. E. Shacklock, Princes Street, Dunedin.

SHAND, JAMES, AND COMPANY, 209 HEREFORD STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Have been established since 1863, and own the ample Avon Bond, on Oxford Terrace. As Wine and Spirit Merchants they have never been equalled in Christchurch, and they are experts in every branch of their business. There is always someone at the business end of Telephone 633, and their cable address is “Shandon.”

SHAND AND Co., WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS, HEREFORD STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Is one of the oldest established firms in the city. Try them how you will, and where you will, you will find it impossible to go wrong.

SHARMAN, J., AND SONS, PORK BUTCHERS AND BACON CURERS, 239 COLOMBO STREET AND 75 VICTORIA STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Are the only makers of the celebrated ham and veal sausage, and are sole manufacturers of their brand of potted ham, which is guaranteed to be positively pure. They always keep a large stock of prime hams, dairy-fed pork, bacon, and small goods, and cooked hams may always be obtained at their establishment. All orders by Telephone 860 will be promptly met.

SEY, WILLIAM, 107 COLOMBO STREET, CHRISTCHURCH, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL PAPERHANGINGS, OIL, COLOUR AND GLASS MERCHANT.—This business was founded in 1881, by Mr. W. Sey, and for the first few years was a comparatively small concern, but under his skilful management it grew rapidly, until, at the present day, it has become the leading house in the line in the city of Christchurch, and is ranked amongst the first firms in New Zealand. Mr. Sey carries probably the largest, and without doubt, the finest collection of artistic wall papers in New Zealand. In his particular line as a decorator, Mr. Sey has shown marked ability, having been entrusted with most of the important decorating work in Canterbury. Mr. Sey has always on hand a large stock of oils, paints, varnishes, paste, plate, mirror, and fancy glass, also Bon Accord sanitary paint and Bon Accord washable distemper. In the year 1891, Mr. Sey was appointed, by special warrant, decorator to His Excellency the Governor.

SEY, W., PAINTER AND DECORATOR.—Is the one Christchurch artist, who, in his own line, holds an appointment to the Governor of New Zealand. As a varnish, colour, and glass merchant, as a decorator of churches and private houses, and as a wholesale and retail paperhanger, Mr. W. Sey is hard to beat.

SHEFFIELD HOTEL, SHEFFIELD.—Situated on the main line to the West Coast. Tourists and the travelling public will find the best accommodation. The hotel is situated only a minute from the Railway Station, and tourists will find plenty of shooting and fishing within easy distance of the house. Nothing but the choicest wines, spirits and ales kept in stock. Horses and traps on hand to convey parties about the district. Telegrams and letters will receive prompt attention. D. Mahar, Proprietor.

SIMPSON AND WILLIAMS, LTD., BOOKSELLERS, 214 HIGH STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—Have a large and varied stock of books and general stationery. They receive weekly shipments of new books and periodicals, the latter being an especial feature of their business. They stock all the latest fashionable and commercial stationery, and can always turn out monograms, visiting cards, etc., on the shortest notice. They are agents for Gordon and Gotch, and for the S.P.C.A., and are prepared to supply all the leading newspapers and magazines of the civilized world.

SKETON, FROSTICK, AND CO., LIMITED.—There are few firms in New Zealand more widely known than Skeiton, Frostick, and Co.
Limited. For many years they have been before the public as importers of leather goods and also as leading manufacturers. Their well-known “Zealandia” brand has become a household word, and their representatives are to be met with in every part of the colony.
If there should be any who have not heard of “Zealandia,” Boots, you can safely argue that they themselves are unknown. It takes many years to build up a reputation and maintain it, and only close attention and enterprise can accomplish this. The “Zealandia” Factory is the most up-to-date in New Zealand, using the very latest machinery, and the Partners take an occasional trip Home to keep in touch with the very latest appliances and styles. No trouble or expense is spared, and the “Zealandia” Brand represents a type of New Zealand progress. It is impossible in this short space to par­ ticularise the various machinery employed in the factory, but whenever any of the firm’s numerous clients or their friends visit Christchurch they are heartily welcomed by the firm, who are pleased to have an opportunity of showing them how boots and shoes are made with up-to-date appliances.

STAYMAKER, T. W., AND CO., 147 COLOMBO STREET.—Are a firm, the opening of whose business as Tailors and Habitmakers will be heartily welcomed. Mr. T. W. Staymaker comes with a high London (West End) reputation as a cutter, and as perfect fitting is the great desideratum in all garment building, the success of the firm is assured.

SMITH AND SMITH, SAWMILLERS, TOOL STREET, CHRISTCHURCH.—
Are the sole manufacturers of the housewife’s greatest boon, known as “Lightening Firewood.” It catches every time, and breakfast is never late in the houses where it is used. You can do without it, but if you do, inconvenience and consequent worry will be your lot.
Remember Smith and Smith, Tuam Street.

SMITH, H., AND CO.—Engineers, boilersmakers, and shipmiths, and ship and engine repairers, of Norwich Quay, Lyttelton, have been established in business for more than thirty years, and are in a position to execute repairs of all kinds with promptness and efficiency.

SPARROW, JOSPEH, AND SONS, ON THE VICTORIA IRON WORKS, RAY­ TRAY AND WILLIS STREETS, DUNEDIN.—Undertake every class of Land and Marine Engineering, and are the largest dredge manufacturers in the world. Boiler-making and iron and brass work of all kinds come within their province, and their riveting is done with hydraulic machinery. They send skilled workmen to all parts of the colony on the shortest notice.

STEWART AND CHINNALL, MESSRS., COOKHAM HOUSE, COLOMBO
STREET.—Are proprietors of the oldest established outfitters’ business in Christchurch. The business was originally started on the present premises by the late Mr. George Gould, and it has never lost the supremacy which it gained in the early days of colonial settlement.
The present proprietors are well-known to the public, having been in the business ever since its commencement. Outfitting in all its branches is attended to by specialists, and every requisite in the shape of mercery, clothing or boots can be supplied of the best quality, and at the shortest notice. A large stock of the celebrated Kaiapoi woollen travelling rugs is always kept in hand, and as no shoddy whatever is used in the manufacture of these, nothing better can be obtained for travelling by coach, rail or steamer. A special department is kept for ladies' and children's boots, shoes, and slippers, and the best manufactures of the principal fashion marts of the world are constantly arriving in large shipments. Cookham House has such an assured local custom that is needs no advertisement in Canterbury, but it is only fair to let the traveller and the tourist know that all their wants can be quickly and faithfully met at the shortest notice. Remember Cookham House, Colombo Street, North.

STRACHAN, WILLIAM, AND CO., VICTORIA BREWERY, PITT STREET, DUNEDIN.—"Good wine needs no bush," said the great poet, and that saying has now passed into a proverb. And if, three hundred years ago, it was true that good wine required no advertisement, the same may with equal truth be said of good ale in a country that John Bull has made his own. It is another John Bull proverb which says "It is a cold stomach that cannot warm good ale," meaning that the stomach must be cold, indeed, that good ale will not warm. And the Dunedin ale brewed by William Strachan and Co., Victoria Brewery, Pitt Street, Dunedin, merits all the kindly things that have been said of it, in proof of which the fact requires to be but mentioned that it can be obtained in nearly every part of New Zealand, and is always on tap at Warner's Hotel, Christchurch.

SUPPLY STORES, THE, 96 COLOMBO STREET, SYDENHAM.—Give full value in every department of grocery, crockery, glassware, ironmongery and general produce. Nothing but the best articles are stocked, and as the trade is conducted on the most modern business lines, customers may rely upon receiving every attention and satisfaction. The phenomenal growth of this business is a proof of public wants supplied and close and intelligent attention to every detail.

SUTHERLAND, H., 280 COLOMBO STREET.—Is a wholesale and retail Tobacconist, who can supply any and every detail of his trade. His "Just in Time" cigarettes must be tried to be appreciated.

SWEET and Co., MESSRS., 7 Spring Street, Sydney.—(Appointed under the Royal Warrant of King Edward VII), are the sole Australian representatives of the Extra Dry Champagne, manufactured by Mons. Charles Heidsieck, of Reims. Nothing that could be said would enhance either the bouquet or the popularity of this celebrated vintage.

TAIT, J., MONUMENTAL SCULPTOR, MANUFACTURER AND IMPORTER.—Has been established in Christchurch since 1868, and his place of business is at 273 Cashel Street West, just over the bridge, and opposite the Drill-shed grounds. His power of artistic design and execution is well known throughout Canterbury, and he offers the public a very large stock from which to select. Headstones, crosses, monuments, tomb-railings, and kerbings are always kept in large number and in infinite variety.

TAPLEY, CHAS.—Keeps that well-known Boarding House "Ellerslie," Governor's Bay. Higher not only brides and bridegrooms, but the less enviable "single" public, are wont to resort for a holiday. The grounds are spacious and well-plant, and immediately over-look the sea. The tariff is fixed at the reasonable charge of £2 2s. per week, and the cuisine is first-class.

TAYLOR and OAKLEY, 234 Tuam Street West, Christchurch.—Sanitary and Electrical Engineers, Plumbers, Tinsmiths, and Gas-fitters, keep every description of goods in connection with the above trades. They are manufacturers of the Lion brand of galvanised Steel Hollow-ware, and are agents for the "Nicholas" patent Cycle Ball-bearing Windmill, which the lightest zephyr suffices to set in motion. Don't forget Taylor and Oakley, of 234 Tuam Street, Christchurch, when any of your domestic or farm machinery gets out of gear, or when ordering new stock.

TEMPLETON HOTEL, 10 Miles South-West from Christchurch.—R. J. Day, Proprietor.—Is well and favourably known to all who have occasion to pass that way. None but the best liquors are retailed to the public.

THORNTON, W. J., TAILOR AND IMPORTER, 189 Cashel Street, Christchurch.—Imports Harris Tweeds, Scotch Homespuns, West of England Tweeds, and all tourist requisites. He makes a specialty of clerical, military, and livery work, and buys only from the leading West of London firms. The latest London and Paris fashions are received monthly. All orders promptly filled.

THOMSON, W., OF THE CANTERBURY BREAD COMPANY, 132, Colombo Street.—Can supply plain and fancy breads of every description at the shortest notice. His malt digestive brown bread has affected many curers of dyspepsia, and no one can go wrong in trying any one of his many lines.

TREN, WILLIAM, TIMARU HOTEL, Timaru.—Is prepared to give every accommodation to his customers. He keeps a really good stock-in-trade, and will always do business on fair terms.

A LARGE TROUT.

Weight 2lb. 9oz., Length 28½in., Girth 21½in. Caught by Mr. H. G. Berryman, near the mouth of the Ashburton River, December 11th, 1902.

This specimen is a female sea-trout, and is in admirable condition. It is the largest trout ever taken in the Ashburton River. The fine scales, having a brilliant silver sheen, together with its form and varicoloured characteristics, are typical of the species. About a dozen other fish, including some brown trout, ranging from 8½ to 14½lb, have also recently been taken by anglers at the mouth of the Ashburton River.

TONKS, NORTON AND CO., MESSRS.—Have, since they first commenced business in September, 1888, proved by their unfalling exertions on behalf of their clients, that they are a firm who warrant the confidence reposed in them, and their own success is evidence of the result of attending faithfully to all business entrusted to them. Their business includes all classes of auctioneering and general agency work, and a speciality is made of hotel and probate duty valuations. An expert of many years' experience has the management of the house and land agency department, and this is an important and leading branch of the firm's business; houses and land to let and for sale are carefully looked after, and every effort is made to carry out clients' instructions. Bent collecting and arranging mortgages is also another branch that receives special attention. Messrs. Tonks, North and Co. are sole agents in Canterbury for the well-known Tonies and Canadian pianos. Australian cedar and hardwood, Phillips and Sons' iron and brass-mounted bedsteads, and Tasmanian and Australian opossum and other fur carriage rugs and apparel. A large assortment of the goods comprised in these agencies is kept in stock, in addition to which the firm are importers of all classes of English furniture and novelties.

TRIGGS and DENTON, WHOLESALE and RETAIL SADDLERS and BAG MANUFACTURERS, 77 MANCHESTER STREET, CHRISTCHURCH, and LONDON STREET, LONDON.—To the tourist and traveller, the obtaining of requisites is of primary importance. Messrs. Triggs and Denton, the well-known bag and portmanteau makers, 77, Manchester Street, Christchurch, cater especially for their wants, and have obtained a wide reputation for the superior quality of the goods they manufacture. A visit to their establishment will show that articles equal to the best English can be made locally. Repairs are made a specialty.

A large and attractive Showroom is fitted up with the latest electrical appliances and electrical work. The workshops are in the same buildings, which are fitted with machinery and modern appliances for all kinds of electrical and light engineering work.

BALLANTYNES ARE CARPET WAREHOUSEMEN.

Messrs. Turnbull and Jones Limited, have facilities in knowledge and experience unsurpassed by any other firm in New Zealand for electrical work, and at their branches in Christchurch, Dunedin, and Wellington carry the largest stocks in New Zealand, together with well trained staffs of workmen. They have special knowledge of Oil and Gas Engines, and their repair and improvement; also of Totalisator machines, of which they have supplied a considerable number throughout New Zealand. Messrs. Turnbull and Jones Limited, are the sole agents in New Zealand for the British and American Westinghouse Electrical Companies; also for Messrs. Waygood's hoists and passengers' lifts, a complete set of the former has been supplied and fitted by them in Messrs. Levin and Co.'s new warehouse, Wellington. An electrical passenger lift was recently supplied and erected for the D.I.C. Christchurch. The firm are prepared to quote for, or indent, any electrical plant, machinery, and appliances of any magnitude.

"TUARIKI" LAUNCH.—16 horse power and twin screw, runs regularly between New Brighton and Summer on Thursdays and Sundays, and affords a pleasant change from the monotony of a tramway journey.
