If you'd like to know more about dinosaurs, try these free online resources for kids. You may need a library card and PIN number for some of these - ask a librarian if you need help.

World Book Kids

christchurchcitylibraries.com/Databases/WorldBookOnlineKids/

An interactive encyclopedia with dinosaur articles, video and images. It includes articles all about dinosaurs including the Pterosaur which had a wing span of 12 metres! That explains why the word "dinosaur" is derived from two Greek words, meaning "terrible lizard".

National Geographic Kids

christchurchcitylibraries.com/Databases/National-Geographic-Kids/

The digital archive of the National Geographic Kids Magazine includes articles, images, videos and colourful online books all about dinosaurs. Did you know that dinosaur bones were mistaken for dragon bones when they first discovered 2,000 years ago?
