

dence in the newspapers brought out the fact that this is one of the two largest oak trees in New Zealand, the other, of about equal size is at the Wesleyan Mission Station in North Island. Mr. Dyer's house was still standing when Dr. Fairman bought the property, 29 years ago, and Dr. and Mrs. Fairman lived in it while their own house was being built.

---