

doubt further aware that the Institute has been entrusted with the care of your valuable property, a complete copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It has been suggested by one of your members that possibly you would be disposed to expend the balance of funds owned by you in a similar way. And as the desirableness of having a good and accessible public Library is recognized by us all, we desire to bring the suggestion formally under your notice. We are one or two of your number appointed to confer with the ^{Vice} President of the Institute a list of valuable, historical, Scientific and other works might be agreed upon, and also the terms upon which they would be held.
