

July 26. Started all night about 12 miles of snow. Snow gradually melted after lunch Gottfried & I went up to the slopes up to 2057.
A party came up & told us of Dollfus excavations. A party of 20 Dettlebein came up.

July 27. Up at 3:45 dress & run in snow, went to bed as it was raining finally got off at 5:45. Put on the rope at 6:45. Fog & bitter wind & steel. could not see 10 yards ahead. An party went off to the Venediger (8 of them returned) he found an way of camp. & the cot between the two Venediger & gave up idea of trying to climb he had just had a glimpse of the Mt. V. & snow as I had been down, he & Gottfried succeeded saw a faint ^{1/16} blue snow cap from the Keeser. He saw an stream & except for the discomfort between was fine. He had the top off at 10:45 & some food & leaving at 10:45 got to the Keeser in a hurry & camped at at 11:20 Had food & left.

July 28. With a man up & looking morning decided to go down. he left at 6. I believe it was one of them days with the best wind when he could have climbed the Geiger. He got to here/kinde at 10:30 first morning the 5.30 for 11:00. Had food at a completely alpine station except the 12:10 still seen see 14:15 got coffee left 14:32 got to St. Michael at 17:05
Gottfried went on train & I went to the scene

July 29. Up early & went to have arranged baggage wrote 11 letters went to Berg Hotel for lunch - cost 7.10 nice breeze came back & took a photo of the Goldenen Dacht. had tea with a diary.
Weather still worsening & clouds obscuring the hills.

July 30. Up early stopped packed baggage 14:0. had breakfast & left wife on the platform. we went in the "Anscheid-Wagen" he got me out up from Bettled. They got off at Langenfeld & I went in to Sölden where I met Gottfried. I stayed in his recommendation at "Gruener Alpenheim" completely clean & cheap he avoided a road facing the church & the stream. I had got some more "wound plasters" in Innsbruck & cleaned the first which had a lot of pus in it & put on iodine & fresh piece of lint. It healed them very quickly.

Venediger
Schnee

July 31 had breakfast 7:15. Gottfried sent word that he has been ill with his and in the night - had had the doctor who told him that he was a little worse of his day. I left word that I would go up & take all the things & he and even when he was inclined I got off at 8:25 & walked up to Feig's with him when I had coffee & rolls 10:25-11:5. In an hour I was at the division of the paths & there was a sharp at 12:15 with halls every 1/2 hour. about 15 miles below the Seigerland but I saw Gottfried coming up a great pace so I waited for him & he got to the top at 2:30. His brother is the Hutterer.
Two people came on with a guide from the Hutterer.

Aug 1. A wet morning. he left at 8:45. I packed my coat & underwear my sack wearing the steel. he stopped at Feig's 10:30
-11:5. got down to Sölden at 12:10. The Hutterer and just gone on. he had been got down recently dry. I got my coat which D. & M. had made repaired.

Aug 2. Clear & blue 6:30 and left for Weiselsau at 6:50 & walked up in the shade almost to the top where I had coffee at Gruener Alpenheim a beautiful view of Sölden and Döller at the Mohrenhand (a mountain of a Drei-Mohren of Döller) seen clear & fresh by camp. I left again at 8:40.
& was at the Seigerland at 9:35. I found the Hutterer and breakfast. He was very & said in his town.
Clark & Hutterer were in the hotel with 3 guys by airbus. I met W. G. Berg who is the other hotel & said he is in the Döller section.
Gottfried came up & we arranged to climb the Grand Schlegel Hutterer.

Aug 3. I got up at 7:30 to an early morning with a South wind. I had breakfast & went to sleep again. arranged maps & had a water breakfast at 9. he walked on to the other hotel & had a very nice the air mountain of this section. with letters. called in Hen Dangler.
had been slept. had tea. wet night.

Aug 4. rained hard all night. went to bed at 11. watched precipitation 1:30 in 2 hours down in minute 4 inches. walk with Hutterer & Peck-Stein had sleep. had tea. had tea. Hutterer had had himself channelled.
