p.24 Sketch Tyfe pass & Le Mair Glacier

Sketch on p 22

p.24 Sketch showing Le Pevens B.S & Mt Cook

Reached by Baker the Chief Scavenger of Canterbury, from the Hooker in 15 The Rocking rocks are reached after two days climb.
He published a book.

(p28) Alpine passes that have been ascended from one side of the other & over which some or the crowd from the Hooker

Pass of the Williamson

This pass is situated at the head of the Eastern branch of the Cauldy Glacier at the head of the Williamson a branch of the Arawata Pass & leads into the Valley of the Dart. I was on the Crown of the ridge & in the Cauldy Big Ulties., but went no further being alone at the time & having no Alpine ~~Equipment~~ Appliances whatever. The ascent was very easy, & I went Stepping Neve with very little sense ice at the start. Once on the top I got down on the Dart side I can't say for certain, but it looked rough. Height roughly estimated 6500 ft.

Tyfe Pass.

From the Miller & the McKerrow Glacier crossed Tyfe some years ago. but I have no impression as to its value as a viable route. Tyfe certainly got to the head of the Twain River via the Douglas pass & would most probably the same way he came, but whether he crossed the range & the Le Mair Glacier & took on Spur on the side I don't know. Probably he took the latter as the best route.

Fitzgerald Pass

This is a high snow covered pass crossed from Fitzgerald & the French Cordillera. Then immediately after J. A. P. Harper & crossed it alone. After that 2 or 3 parties have gone there.
The route is via the Karangarua Cleland & Douglas Rivers & on to the Hooker Glacier, above the Hermitage
The pass is not a dangerous one as there are only two steeps & cornices to cross & the snowfield is of no great extent.

Baker Saddle

This well defined pass which is one of the finest scenes in the country lies between the Strauchan & Hooker Glaciers Several parties have been