Builders All.

Surely some builder has builded the pillar as well as the spire
The Cross that the painter gilded was fashioned in smelting fire
Surely men dug in the ditches, prepared a place for the wall
And Someone has made with his stitches the flag that flies over all

Someone has blended the plaster, someone has carried the stone
Neither the man nor the master ever has builded alone
Making a way from the wilderness, building a home for a King
Only by working together, man has accomplished a thing.

All have a share in the building beauty, all have a part in the plan
What does it matter (Hans) which duty falls to the lot of a man
Each has a hand in the building; no one has builded alone
Whether a Cross he was gilding, whether he carried the Stone
